Mid-East War Explodes

Sides Trade Barbs

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations Security Council adjourned today for "urgent consultations" on the Middle East hostilities, after hearing Egypt and Israel accuse each other of starting the fighting.

The 15 member countries, including Canada, were said to be discussing the terms of a ceasefire resolution.

The council president, Danish Ambassador Hans Tabor, asked members to hold themselves in "instant readiness" to meet again.

Israeli Ambassador Gideon Rafael said the fighting started when Egyptian armed columns "moved in an offensive thrust against Israel's borders." Egyptian planes "struck out against Israel" from airfields in the Sinai Peninsula and Egyptian artillery shelled villages near the Gaza Strip.

Criticizes Israel

Egyptian Ambassador Award El-Komy said Israeli armed forces are "committing cowardly aggression" against his country.

"The Israeli attacks are wide, no one can doubt the pre-meditated nature of this aggression," he said.

He claimed that the Israeli attacks included air raids on airfields in Cairo and the Suez Canal area and the bombing of a French tanker in the canal.

Tabor told the council he was informed by the Israeli ambassador at 3:10 a.m. that Egypt had attacked Israel, and by the Egyptian ambassador at 3:30 a.m. that Israel had attacked Egypt.

Secretary-General U Thant told the council that his early information is fragmentary but "it is obvious that serious military action is taking place on land and in the air at a number of points and is spreading." The information, from UN sources, provided "no means of ascertaining how hostilities were initiated."

OCCUPY HEADQUARTERS

Thant said a company of Jordanian troops occupied Government House in Jerusalem, headquarters of the UN Truce Supervision Organization on the Israeli-Jordanian frontier, despite the protests of the UN commander, Norwegian Lt.-Gen. Odd Bull. Jordanian troops were

PM Urges All Efforts To Stop War Spreading

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson declared today that every effort must be directed to a ceasefire in the fighting between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

"There is only one certain way to prevent the fighting from spreading and that is to end it," Mr. Pearson said in a statement.

He issued his statement after a long briefing given him and External Affairs Minister Martin by external affairs and defense department officials.

The cabinet met 90 minutes later.

Mr. Pearson said the government is taking measures to protect Canadians in the area.

His statement:

"I have learned about the outbreak of fighting in the Middle East with great concern. At the moment all effort must be directed to a ceasefire. There is only one certain way to prevent the fighting from spreading and that is to end it."

The secretary of state for external affairs, the minister of national defence and I met at 8:30 o'clock this morning for a briefing from diplomatic and military experts.

The cabinet meets at 11 a.m. to discuss the situation.

"A statement will be made in the House of Commons this afternoon.

"The government is taking all possible measures to provide for safety of Canadians in the area, and the embassies in the area have the required authority."

The reference to embassies having the required authority means that they could warn Canadians to leave immediately.

"And, if necessary, help with their transportation out of the fighting zones."

When the cabinet assembled,

Ever body's tryin' t' avoid a Middle East spread.

CRISIS FLASHES

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson proposed today that Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union consider a high-level meeting on the Middle East war.

Speaking in the Commons, Mr. Pearson said the four permanent members of the UN Security Council have special responsibilities with respect to the outbreak of war, and should consider talks at a "very high political level."

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations Security Council is having difficulty in reaching a ceasefire resolution diplomatic sources said today during a recess for private consultations on the Middle East hostilities.

India proposed that such a resolution request the Israeli and Arab forces to withdraw to positions they held Sunday. A majority of members were reported to feel, however, that no mention of troop withdrawals was necessary in a resolution calling for an immediate ceasefire.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today called on nations of the world to work for a ceasefire in the Middle East war between the Israelis and Arabs.

Cautioning that continued fighting could lead to tragic consequences, the White House said on behalf of President Johnson:

"We call upon all parties to support the security council in bringing about an immediate ceasefire."

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union charged tonight that the United States and Britain "incited the Israeli extremists" into attacking Egypt.

"The extremists ... are losing their heads," the government newspaper, Izvestia, said in the first Soviet comment on the Mid-east war.

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel headquarters announced tonight capture of Khan Yunis on the southern tip of Gaza Strip.

An Israeli column, by the account here, smashed into the area which was the scene of a battle in the 1956 Sinai campaign against Egypt.

Occupation of the sector appeared to have cut off any Egyptian forces in the northern tip including the town of Gaza, unless they could break out to Israeli territory.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is neutral in the present Middle East hostilities, the state department's spokesman announced today.

At the same time the state department restricted the travel of American citizens of 14 countries — 13 Arab countries and Israel — until further notice.

MARKET JOLTED

NEW YORK (AP)—The outbreak of hostilities in the Middle East jolted the stock market today to one of its heaviest losses. (Details on page 8.)

Trading was extremely heavy.

Stocks of the international oil companies were hard hit. Texaco fell $3 a share to $70, and Jersey Standard dropped $1.75 to $39.50.

The Dow Jones index closed off 15.00.

At the end of the first hour of trading, Dow Industrials had been down 20.77.

Stunt Pilot Dies

PARIS (Reuters)—A French Air Force aerobatic pilot was killed Sunday in the second of two crashes at an International Air Show at Le Bourget airport near Paris.

Israel is fighting Egypt, Jordan and Syria across a wide battlefield tonight.

Plane losses were reported high on both sides after bombing raids on all four nations.

Egypt said Arabs have knocked down 158 of Israel's 450 planes. Israel said 150 Egyptian planes have been destroyed. There was no confirmation of either report.

Fighting started with a border clash between Egypt and Israel in the Sinai desert, followed by an Israeli air raid on Egypt.

Shells fell on the divided city of Jerusalem despite a plea from Pope Paul that it be declared an inviolable city.

Israeli tanks reported gains in Gaza Strip fighting and in the Sinai Desert battle.

Air, Ground Raids Reported

TEL AVIV (CP)—Fighting broke out between Israel and its Arab neighbors today for the third time in 20 years.

Heavy fighting raged in Egypt's Sinai desert—the route Israelis took to reach the Suez Canal in 1956.

Air battles and bombing raids were reported by both sides.

Forces of Egypt, Jordan and Syria were involved on the Arab side.

Kuwait, meanwhile, proclaimed a "defensive war" against Israel and the Algerian press service said troops of the well-trained Algerian army will leave Algeria tonight for the Middle East.

In Rabat, King Hassan II instructed units of the Moroccan armed forces to be sent to the Middle East, officials said.

The fighting began after a series of minor clashes over the last few months across the Syrian-Israeli border, followed by Egypt's command May 17 for the United Nations to withdraw the UN Emergency Force that had separated Israel and Egypt on the Sinai frontier and at the Gaza Strip.

The fighting first erupted on the Sinai Desert front between Egyptian and Israeli troops and tanks, then spread to the Syrian and Jordanian fronts.

Both sides accused the other of starting the war after weeks of crisis.

Egypt said Cairo and other Egyptian targets were bombed. Damascus radio reported that Syrian air force planes bombed the oil refinery in Haifa and left it in flames. The broadcast said airfields in northern Israel were heavily damaged. Amman radio said Jordanian planes also took part in the raid.

The hardest ground fighting appeared to be centred in the Sinai Desert front involving Egyptian and Israeli troops. An Israeli dispatch said the army there had made gains but was denied in Cairo. Fighting also broke out along the Egyptian-administered Gaza Strip farther north.

Jordanian and Israeli artillery duelled along the border of divided Jerusalem. Damascus said the Syrian army had gone into action on its front with Israel.

Both sides claimed sweeping victories in the air battles, the biggest of which broke out over the Sinai Desert.

Cairo Dances To War News

By GARVEN HUDGINS

CAIRO (AP) — Crowds of Egyptians cheered, danced in the streets and jammed around cars with radios for news after broadcasts and bursts of anti-aircraft fire told them their country was fighting with Israel.

Despite anti-aircraft firing heard and radio reports that Israeli planes were attacking Cairo, there was no sign of panic.

A few nervous women entered a shelter under a downtown bank, while an elderly woman lottery vendor squatted by a wall of sandbags in front of the bank and shouted: "Israel will perish! Israel will perish!"

The usual visible reaction was "helas," meaning roughly "Good, let's get it over with."

HOLY WAR

Moslem leaders have been urging the Arabs to wage a holy war on the Jewish nation of Israel, formed out of Palestinian land by a war in 1948.

White flak bursts were seen over the northern section of Cairo, but no planes were seen from the centre of the city. Egyptian MIG fighters were reported sweeping low over Helio-

Prime Minister Holt of Australia was invited to attend along with his cabinet secretary, Sir John Hunting.

Mr. Pearson read the statement issued earlier for television adding only "I can't say anything more at the moment but I may have something later."

CAUSED FLURRY

Mr. Martin caused a brief flurry of excitement among the crowd of reporters when he came running up the stairs clutching a green sheet of paper and jog-trotted along the hall from the cabinet room to his office.

He was grim-faced and declined to say anything until after the cabinet session.

On his return trip to the cabinet chamber, he told reporters the government has arranged to fly Opposition Leader Diefenbaker to the capital from his Prince Albert, Sask., home where the Conservative leader was attending the opening of a bridge.

Following the briefing session, Mr. Pearson said:

"We now have all the information that anybody has about the situation." Mr. Pearson told reporters.

Officials said the briefing was an assessment of the situation.

Immediately engaged in combat with nearby Israeli troops.

Thant told the council he called a protest to King Hussein of Jordan, requesting immediate withdrawal from the UN headquarters.

Israel's army later claimed it wrested control of the UN headquarters in Jerusalem from Jordanian troops.

Thant also reported that three Indian soldiers of the UN Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip were killed when their truck convoy was strafed by an Israeli plane.

Thant said an unknown number of soldiers were wounded in the attack on the convoy, whose trucks "were painted white, as are all UN buildings and vehicles" in the area.

After Thant finished his report, Indian Ambassador Gopalwami Parthasarathi jumped in to denounce Israel for the incident and asked the council "to condemn most vigorously this wanton attack by the ruling circle in Israel."

He said the slain Indian soldiers "are martyrs in the cause of peace."

ARABS, JEWS AT WAR

Cairo radio claimed 70 Israeli planes had been shot down in Egypt alone. An Israeli Arab-language broadcast claimed Israel had destroyed 150 Egyptian planes.

Radio Cairo said Egyptian forces captured 14 Israeli pilots in the Suez Canal area. It said Egypt is sending the United Nations Security Council a television recording of an interrogation session with the first Israeli pilot, who the radio quoted as saying his unit was ordered to raid an Egyptian airfield early today.

All Arab broadcasts called on the armies to drive the Israelis into the sea.

"We are on the threshold of the final battle and we hope that God will grant us victory," King Hussein of Jordan said in a broadcast.

Meanwhile, shops remained open and houses continued to do their errands.

Cairo airport report no damage but said all incoming and outgoing international flights were suspended.

Battle Against Blockade

Dayan said the main task is "to sever and crush the right of blockades and aggression which have been created around us."

The first Israeli-Arab war came as the new state was proclaimed May 15, 1948. Israel was formed out of Palestine, long under British mandate rule. This war was ended in an armistice in 1949, broken in 1956 when Israel, backed by France and Britain, attacked Egypt. That fighting ceased under pressure from the United States and the Soviet Union.

Iraq has been moving troops into Syria and Egypt for more than a week, but there was no report they had gone into action. The Arab high command in Cairo said Iraqi planes had joined Syria and Jordan in raids on Israeli targets.

Cairo Radio said Israeli planes were bombing Cairo and other places. The Israeli government denied any Egyptian cities had been attacked. Heavy anti-aircraft fire was heard from the outskirts of Cairo but no planes were seen over the centre of the Egyptian capital.

The Israeli army reported heavy fighting in the Negev desert of southern Israel, opposite the Gaza Strip and Sinai desert where Egypt had massed 80,000 troops. The Israeli government radio's military correspondent reported Israeli forces were advancing and Egyptian guns had been silenced in an artillery battle.

A Jordanian government spokesman reported "a fierce battle" in Jerusalem. He said Jordanian artillery set off "huge fires on the Israeli side."

The fighting in the Negev included tank and air battles as well as the artillery duel, the Israeli army said.

Brig. Ezah Weizmann, operations officer of the Israeli general staff, declared general mobilization in midmorning. The Jewish nation had been partly mobilized for several weeks.

Damascus Radio announced that Syrian planes were bombing Israeli cities and "we have joined the battle."

The radio, quoting the commander-in-chief of Syrian forces, said Syrian aircraft bombed Israeli "towns, positions and installations." Radio Mecca said Saudi Arabian forces have entered Jordan to "fight on the side of our Arab brothers."

Arab 'Fight of Destiny'

The radio said King Faisal of Saudi Arabia pledged his support to Egyptian President Nasser in the "battle of destiny."

The pledge came in a cable from the king to Nasser, the radio said.

Israeli Defence Minister Gen. Moshe Dayan said that "the objective of our forces is to foil the attempts of the Egyptian army to conquer Israel."

Dayan said ground forces went out to silence Egyptian artillery which had been bombarding Israeli settlements near the Gaza Strip.

The Syrian government radio appealed for all Arabs to join the fight against Israel and declared: "The battle is ignited and the fire will not be put out."

It was the first serious fighting since the new Arab-Israeli crisis developed three weeks ago.

Egyptian and Syrian troops massed on their borders with Israel three weeks ago after Israel threatened military reprisals for commando raids supported by Syria.

Nasser then demanded removal of the United Nations Emergency Force from Egyptian land on the Israeli border and from Sharm el Sheikh, overlooking the Strait of Tiran, the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba. UN Secretary-General U Thant complied.

Nasser then announced he would bar Israeli shipping from the gulf, Israel's only direct outlet to Iranian oil, Africa and the Far East. Israel said it would fight if the blockade were enforced but has not yet tested it.

Invasion Report Denied

The Israeli government, in a statement issued by its embassy in London, denied the Cairo reports that Israeli planes had attacked or attempted to attack Cairo.

Bahrain Radio, quoting the Egyptian foreign ministry, said Israeli air strikes were directed at airfields in Cairo and the Suez Canal area.

Lebanese Premier Rashid Karami said the battle had begun and Lebanon is prepared for it.

The Egyptian military command said Israeli planes were attacking the Sharm el Sheikh area, site of the Egyptian shore batteries with which Egypt planned to enforce its blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.

In New York, the United Nations Security Council was called into an urgent session at 9:30 a.m. EDT, today to consider the grave new turn of events.

Esquimalt High School student Dan Bryant, 17, came third in the B.C. Teenage Rodeo in Vancouver on Sunday.

Dan McKerracher, 17, of Terrace won the contest, a test of safe driving skills. Second was Ron Gilbert of Kamloops.

WAR BRIEFSU.S. Asks Ceasefire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government called upon "all parties" today to support the United Nations Security Council in bringing about an immediate ceasefire in the Middle East war.

STRACHAN WINS 63% SUPPORT

VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, MONDAY, JUNE 5, 1967 3
EXPLOSIVE ATMOSPHERE AT CONVENTION

Berger Keeps Eyes on Leadership; New Contest in '68?

By JOHN MIKA
Times Political Reporter

BURNABY — The NDP's largest convention ever has answered one question about its leadership with a vote here that still left another lingering in the air.

A total of 455 delegates gave 63 per cent support to Robert Strachan to re-elect him to his 12th year as leader and the unsuccessful challenger Tom Berger hinted that he has not given up hope of becoming leader.

Mr. Berger declined to say when he might try again — at 34 he's young enough to wait for Mr. Strachan to retire — but several other MLAs indicated they would not be surprised to see another contest at the 1968 or 1969 conventions.

And national leader T. C. Douglas said he thought it would be good to have a serious contest almost every year because "nothing keeps you on your toes better than having to fight for your job."

Mr. Strachan told reporters after the vote that the result was decisive and his mandate was unimpaired.

But even his nominator, MLA Alex Macdonald, two weeks ago said he needed at least 80 per cent support to remain effective and predicted he would get it at the convention.

When asked if he thought the contest would be repeated next year or before the next provincial election, Mr. Strachan said he would be surprised if it did and believed most people in the party would become impatient with repeated challenges.

Mr. Berger answered the same question by telling reporters "I subscribe to Mr. Douglas' views."

"SEE IT THROUGH"

Later he said he did not feel sufficiently disheartened by the vote never to run again and told another party member that he intended to continue battling for the changes he sought because "When I start something I see it through to the end."

Several MLAs from both camps said they would be surprised to see another leadership contest before the next provincial election, but others said it could come again next year depending on Mr. Strachan's performance during the next 12 months.

One of the latter said that if there is "a next time, he (Strachan) won't survive because Berger made a tremendous impression."

NO SPLIT
But all maintained that the contest had not split the party and may have made it stronger by impressing the public with its internal democracy and strength.

"I'm very proud of the fact that our party has developed sufficient maturity that we can have a leadership contest without destroying the party," said Mr. Douglas.

"We're the only political party that provides in its constitution that the leader, whether federal or provincial, is elected only until the next annual convention.

"This contest has demonstrated that this provision is not just a formality and I would not resent anyone trying for the national leadership either because I think it is important for a party to have the machinery for transferring leadership without having to wait until a man has outlined his usefulness and having to do it in an undignified and painful manner."

RECORD NUMBER
Both Mr. Douglas and Mr. Berger said the challenge had stimulated great interest, inside and outside the party, and helped bring out a record number of delegates.

More than 600 delegates, alternates and observers jammed the South Burnaby High School's cafeteria area to see the two-month old campaign go right to the finish wire without any let-up in lobbying.

In an explosive atmosphere that saw several sparks fly in the final hours but no major detonation, the convention gave 278 votes to Mr. Strachan and 177 to Mr. Berger.

TWO UPSETS
Despite the tension, the outcome was no surprise because the pro-Strachan camp had scored two upsets and a near miss earlier in the day during contests for three party vice-presidencies.

These included defeat of Mr. Berger's seconder, Grant MacNeil, for re-election as second VP by Mrs. Margaret Hobbs of Revelstoke-Slocan riding association.

MLA Frank Clader, an ardent supporter of Mr. Berger, was knocked out his third VP post by relatively unknown Del Carrill of Burnaby-Willingdon constituency association.

David Stupich was re-elected first VP by acclamation and Berger-supporter Ray Haynes, secretary of the B.C. Federation, held on to his fourth VP post by only 12 votes when challenged by Paddy Neal.

But all maintained that the secretary of Vancouver Labor Council.

After his re-election, virtually the entire convention body gave Mr. Strachan a standing ovation for the first time. Only about two-thirds had given this sign of support previously.

"One of the excitements of the past two months in this party was that you didn't know if you were being followed or chased," Mr. Strachan opened his victory speech.

"This is not an easy speech to make but now that the leadership question has been settled, I think we are on our mettle to prove that we can work together — irrespective of which side we took in this contest and overlooking anything that might have been said or done in the heat of the contest.

"I have been leader now for 11 years and it has been a great and thrilling experience, I don't regret one minute of it.

"I intend to make sure that the principles of democratic socialism remain in this party," said Mr. Strachan.

DREAMS REALIZED'
"And I intend to lead a caucus and a party to grow in numbers and dedication so at the next provincial election those people who have sacrificed themselves in the past will see their dreams realized as we come to power.

"The contest is over. I want to thank Tom Berger for the kind of campaign he personally conducted.

"I want Tom Berger to know that when we meet again in caucus, he will find that what is past is past and that we have a united and determined caucus so that we can keep storming into the future."

Mr. Berger told the convention he was "glad we have waged this contest in the spirit it was contested" and congratulated Mr. Strachan.

"I believe we have demonstrated in the last two months that we weren't kidding when we said the leader has to stand for re-election every year in our party," said Mr. Berger.

"I think it was a lesson worth teaching the people and the other parties that it was true.

'MY LEADER'

"This is my party and Bob Strachan is my leader.

"And I want to say to those who supported me, Bob Strachan is your leader too.

"We have been working together for years. We have been working together for the make, however I have dismissed any idea of blind loyalty," he explained.

The leadership contest began at 8:30 p.m. with a severe embarrassment for Randolph Harding, who nominated Mr. Berger.

"One letter from Mr. Harding, as caucus chairman, urging re-election of Mr. Strachan was read to the convention.

His letter said the NDP MLAs had not submitted any other name for consideration and he is therefore the caucus choice for leader.

Mr. Harding said he had to send the letter at the time because the majority of MLAs had refused to postpone a decision on their nominee to give Mr. Berger more time to decide whether or not he would run.

"My decision to oppose our leader was a difficult one to make, however I have dismissed any idea of blind loyalty," he explained.

He said Mr. Berger represented the party's best hope of coming into power because Mr. Strachan had failed to provide the organizing drive needed to make the NDP pre-eminent.

Similar sentiments were expressed by the seconder, Mr. MacNeil.

Mr. Macdonald, nominating

The Global Brink

THE WORK OF THE UNITED NATIONS in a dozen fields of international assistance has been one of the most promising developments of our era. The UN programs of aid for children, for agriculture, for refugees, for countries needing financial assistance, for the relief of disease, for education—these are bright spots in a world which has all too few of them.

But regardless of such positive advances, the United Nations, as created at San Francisco more than two decades ago, must in the end stand or fall by the criterion of its main function—the preservation of peace in the world. If this joint undertaking of nearly all the nations of the globe cannot prevent the outbreak of a world conflict, then the supporting roles exemplified in other activities will not be enough.

Today, the United Nations is faced with one of the sternest tests of its existence in the form of the Middle East crisis. It has had other tests and acquitted itself with some degree of success. There have been wars—and Korea and Vietnam cannot be viewed as other than major conflicts—but the ultimate holocaust of a world war in the nuclear age has so far been avoided. For this the UN must be given some credit even though other factors of world politics are also involved.

What must be remembered is that in the absence of supra-national powers to impose its edicts on member nations, the United Nations can be only as strong as its Charter permits, and in the end only as strong as its most powerful members will permit. When it suffers a setback—as it did in the ouster of the UN police force from the Gaza theatre—to say that the UN has failed is only to say that the nations that compose it have failed. The principle and the ideal still exist—and so does the crucial need.

The nations of the world cannot turn away from the UN at a moment of crisis and declare that it is unworkable. If the present organization were to be permitted to collapse, the world could not lose a moment in replacing it with some similar form of international co-operation. The need for it in 1967 is even greater than it was in 1946—and those nations which hamper or destroy its effectiveness in a critical moment are risking much greater dangers than those they seek to evade.

Canada has borne the brunt of President Nasser's rejection of the UN in his quarrel with Israel, having been singled out by name for immediate troop withdrawal. But that should not cause this country to falter in its support for the principle of the UN or to withhold its manpower whenever Canadian aid is requested. Prime Minister Pearson, who has done so much for the peace-keeping function of the United Nations, recognizes this fact and his leadership is particularly fortunate at this time.

The present crisis has shown that a tentative approach of the UN to an immediate threat of war is not enough. The powers that have been conferred on the United Nations as a peace-keeping organization are not sufficient to cope with serious emergencies such as the Israeli-Egyptian border presented to it. But that is not a defect of the UN as such. It is entirely due to the reluctance of the member nations to give the UN sufficient power—for this would mean a reduction of the sovereign power of the countries concerned.

Few if any nations are yet ready to give the UN automatic jurisdiction at a time of war crisis. That ultimate peace-keeping power is still something for the future, but it will not be advanced by denigrating the UN in its present extremity. Those who deliberately risk the dissolution of the United Nations except to replace it with a better, stronger entity, play a dangerous game. The UN is still our best hope of controlling the Middle East outbreak.

Bright Outlook for a Dark Skin

A YEAR OR TWO AGO NEGRO television comedians specializing in racist jokes poked fun at the brotherhood pretensions of some businessmen regarding colored people. The theme was usually familiar—some noticeable way of drawing attention to the unbiased nature of the white man. "Take a Negro to lunch" became a catchword.

The joke has stalled. The practice has increased—and for economic rather than ethical reasons.

This year, reports the Associated Press from New York, recruitment of Negro graduates from American universities and colleges has reached an unprecedented high, mainly by firms which have government contracts.

The logic is simple. The government of the United States frowns upon a company which indicates racial bias by declining to hire Negroes.

One large corporation spokesman suggests that in the near future Negro graduates may be receiving premium offers from various companies. He adds that the degree of aggressiveness displayed in recruiting Negroes may depend on the defence contracts held, or hoped for, by the companies.

This is integration on a tough, cash basis. "I could not love thee half so well," the companies seem to be telling the Negro graduate, "loved I not defence contracts more."

To Protect, or to Plunder

CHIEF JUSTICE J. O. WILSON of British Columbia's Supreme Court has presented a good case to British Columbia university graduates—he spoke to those of UBC at their congregation—to remain in British Columbia and to assist in the development of this province through their skills and trained minds cultivated here.

He saw personal opportunities for the young men and young women and suggested to them that their part in the development could keep the land unspoiled.

Something Being Done

THE CURRENT CAMPAIGN of the organizers of the Boys' Club to obtain funds for expansion of their Yates Street quarters cannot be ignored as "just one more appeal for money." It is that, of course, but it is also a worthy effort to provide an adequate meeting place for some hundreds of boys who otherwise could take to the streets in search of amusement.

This is in no sense a rich man's club—it caters to the youngsters who have less access to supervised recreational facilities than others may. It provides a healthful outlet for energies, a focus for constructive associations, an alternative to wasted hours of harmful activities. On such a basis the Boys' Club deserves support. It is one answer to the common question: "Why doesn't somebody do something?"

Act Like a Grasshopper, Talk Like An Ant

MR. SHARP'S budget is a cry of protest looking for a sandwich board marked "unfair to finance ministers."

The government is persuaded that its programs — almost $10 billions of them — fairly reflects our needs and demands. But it is not persuaded that we are prepared to pay for them through our taxes. The answer is the second largest budget deficit in our peace-time history — $740 million if Mr. Sharp is lucky — which means a camouflaged and more expensive payment, possibly through price increases and certainly through interest on a substantially increased deadweight debt.

It is important to recognize that Mr. Sharp's figure of $740 million is sharp pencil work in the department of finance. Some allowance should doubtless be made for the normal cussedness of inflated things. Since last year's forecast of $450 million ended as a recorded deficit of $428 million the country will no doubt be fortunate if the deficit for 1967-68 is held below the billion mark.

Mr. Sharp managed one section of extraordinary candour. He is in a jam about expenditures and he says so. Forecasting is a dicey business "because we have so many new programs whose cost is difficult to estimate until we have more experience with them." Only this spring we were assured that the estimates this year contain everything but the kitchen sink and are so reliable as virtually to preclude after-thoughts. But last week Mr. Sharp had the grim news that adult training alone would cost $50 million more than Manpower's original calculation.

Nor is this all. In a particularly eloquent passage, the minister refers to last year's record and adds: "In forecasting this year, I have tried to take into account this experience, as well as the enthusiasm and persistence of my colleagues and other honorable members in support of worthy but expensive ideas." With a bit less enthusiasm in cabinet, he would undoubtedly have done twice as well.

Curious Arrangement

The budget is based upon two forecasts, one for the short term and one for the long. But the arrangement is curious; it is the long view that moves Mr. Sharp to exhortation but the short that moves the government to action.

We are warned again and again of the inflationary threat. "The chief obstacle I see to our attaining stable growth in the next few years is the danger of excessive increases in prices and costs." Again: "If unchecked, such increases in costs and prices must lead to increasing inequity and dissension in the country and to a worsening of the competitive position vis-a-vis the United States. This would impose a serious restraint on the growth of Canadian industry and frustrate our efforts to maintain a steady rate of expansion in the jobs available for our growing labor force."

Why then is the government greatly widening the deficit? The danger has not slunk away. "New wage settlements resulting from collective bargaining this year show increases as large as those of last year. Most of the increases now occurring in wage and salary rates, including executive salaries, are substantially in excess of the general increases in productivity that have been taking place. They clearly imply that further increases in prices are likely to occur."

There are evidently two answers. One, recognized at least by implication in Mr. Sharp's speech, is taxpayer resistance. The other is the uncertain short-term prospect which would mean a "modest temporary increase in unemployment" and a "somewhat smaller increase in prices than last year" and "some further squeeze on profits."

It is the short term that governs — aided in the normal fashion by the zealous efforts of cabinet colleagues still apparently persuaded that the sky is the only limit to public expenditures.

It is in some respect an agony budget. There is certainly small consolation to be derived from background hints that Mr. Sharp's revenue position might be improved by a rise in prices. This is what he most hopes to avoid. In any case, they rose with a vengeance last year, and the deficit with them.

But there is light on the horizon. September should bring a reduction in drug prices and beyond that is the prospect of tariff reductions flowing from the Kennedy Round. Unfortunately the price effects will begin to make themselves felt only in 1968. They should exert a helpfully moderating influence in the last months of the fiscal year but this will be marginal relief. Mr. Sharp has the promise of help tomorrow but he is wrestling with an economy which needs help today.

The speech recognizes that the government is heading into a difficult financial year. While Mr. Sharp will not have to worry about heavy borrowings for Expo and the centennial, this relief is far more than offset by huge demands for housing, for the Farm Credit Corporation and for the projected deficit.

Total cash requirements will be more than double; up from $719 million to $1520 millions. The government will have to make major demands on the market and Mr. Sharp will have far less room for manoeuvre than he had last year.

Because the big changes relating to the Carter tax recommendations and the Kennedy Round are deferred to the future, it is a relatively simple budget. There is more of the gas pedal than the brake about it but essentially Mr. Sharp is simply hanging on to the steering wheel and hoping for the best.

Not all of his observations unhappily will contribute to a desirable lessening of dissension in the country. While it is pleasant to read that "the price index does not fully take into account improvements in the quality of the goods and services sold," the index also fails — as both economists and consumers have noted — to take account of the deterioration of goods and services which normally accompanies inflation.

While Mr. Sharp will not have to worry about heavy borrowings for Expo and the centennial, this relief is far more than offset by huge demands for housing, for the Farm Credit Corporation and for the projected deficit.

Mr. Sharp draws a moral from experience that "we in Canada have not learned to pace ourselves". . . "We have overloaded the economy with excessive demands." This is undeniably true. But we might have responded better to the minister's excellent exhortations if our government had shown much disposition to pace itself. Instead it danced like the grasshopper while commanding us the wigmom of the ants.

Few Illusions Left in Vietnam

Desperate Expedients Substitute for Strategy

By WARD JUST
(First of Two Articles)

SAIGON—This war is not being won, and by any reasonable estimate is not going to be won in the foreseeable future. It may be unwinnable.

Frustrated at the resiliency and resources of the enemy, the administration revises its rules of engagement and widens the war.

South Vietnam, unstable at best, sags, becomes bloated, threatens to become unmoved altogether.

The Americans and the Saigon government have not been able to dispel what one official calls "the revolutionary atmosphere" that is the property of the Communists.

Non-Communist Vietnamese refuse to place themselves in the centre of the struggle.

Vietnamese may willingly die for an illusion, but there are few illusions left in Vietnam. The Viet Cong may not be regarded as marauders, but they are no longer saviors; yet the roots of revolution are deep in the peasantry.

Thirty billion dollars and thousands of dead men have not bought a better illusion, one around which the population can wholeheartedly rally.

The middle class see the language being torn apart by a war machine fitted not to counter insurgency but what Gen. William C. Westmoreland correctly calls a war of attrition. To Vietnamese, it seems a case of killing a man in an auto accident to save him from cancer.

Among the Americans, what is missing is a sense of purpose and a sense of priorities. No one can agree on "what the situation in Vietnam is, except that it is surely unsatisfactory."

No one can say with any certainty that the allies are a quarter or a half or three-quarters down the road, or, indeed, whether units of time have relevance in Vietnam.

Five officials of the American Mission, all close friends with access to the best information available here, decided a few months ago to take an informal accounting of the situation. They assembled at noon over pots of hot coffee and in the best academic tradition assigned each other themes — revolutionary development, combat operations, effectiveness of the government.

Wanted Estimate of the Situation

Before beginning, one man thought there ought to be an agreement on the estimate of the overall situation. They fell to talking of that and did not rise until shortly after 7 p.m.

"You wouldn't believe the divergence of view," one of them said later. "We finally managed to get everyone more or less together. We drafted a well-worded statement that came out, I guess, on the very light side of optimism."

Or the very light side of pessimism, depending on the turn of mind — it all had to do with "resolution" of "the situation."

In trying to sum up 18 months in Vietnam, there are no movements this way and that and no deep-going themes. There are only incidents:

On the basis of the evidence, American officials have decided that the Revolutionary Development Cadre program is workable. This is not to say it will work, but that it can work. In some places it is working, and in other places it is not working. Generalizations are difficult.

Prime Minister Ky and Chief of State Thieu, now locked in a struggle for the presidency of Vietnam, are on a collision course. Senior American diplomats believe there will be no collision, however, because Vietnamese generals have told them the army will stay out of it. Others are skeptical.

Mental Problem Incidence Up

The incidence of mental breakdown among American civilian officials in Vietnam is rising. No one has isolated the causes.

The rifle range at the base camp of the 25th infantry division at Chu Chi, 20 miles west of Saigon, is insecure, and frequently under sniper fire. Recruits cannot use it for weapons testing unless they themselves are accompanied by a patrol. The division has been at Chu Chi for 12 months.

Only one field-grade officer in the Vietnamese army has been wounded leading troops into battle in the past three years. He is Gen. Cao Van Vien, the current chief of the general staff, who was wounded as a young colonel three years ago. He recently was given a Silver Star by Gen. Westmoreland.

The new American military compound at Tan Son Nhut is expected to cost about $100,000,000. And there are no swimming pools.

After 18 months of outstanding reporting of the war and the politics of Vietnam, Ward Just of The Washington Post is leaving the country for other assignments.

Mr. Just is a reporter of great courage and initiative, one of the small band of correspondents who have gone under fire to cover the fighting fronts and risked — and incurred — the displeasure of American and South Vietnamese military and civilian officials to find out what is really going on in this tiny, war-devastated country.

Just a year ago Mr. Just was seriously wounded by grenade fragments while on patrol with the United States 1st Airborne Division north of Pleiku, but was back on his reporting beat within three weeks. He won a 1967 Overseas Press Club citation for his work.

He offers his summing up of the Vietnam situation in two articles.

The tragedy of Vietnam is mirrored in the faces of these women with a crying child being questioned at gun-point about Viet Cong activities in their village. The youngest woman was later arrested as the wife of a suspected Viet Cong guerrilla fighter.

Intelligent men have been wrong before. They said that American troops would not fight well in Vietnamese jungles, they have. They said jet aircraft was useless against the guerrilla; it isn't. They said B-52 strikes were inconsequential, no more than jungle-busters; they aren't ("and at only a million dollars a raid," the official said dryly).

Battles erupt, small ones in the Delta, larger ones in the highlands, the largest of all in the First Corps up by the Demilitarized Zone, and none of them battles for terrain or control of population but for men and supplies.

Two Brigades Moving Out

The time was early March, 1966. Two brigades of the First Cavalry Division were operating out of Bong Son, in northern Binh Dinh province.

The company was moving very slowly, the Viet Cong just ahead of it. From time to time the retreating enemy would leave a man behind to squeeze off a sniper round.

We were walking through bombed-out villages and care-free rice fields. The company was taking two casualties an hour from the snipers. The company commander was new, and not certain how he should proceed, the faces of the villagers bewildered him.

The villagers' faces were opaque, and from time to time you thought you saw a trace of a smile. We were walking along a footpath with the lead elements ahead, and the villagers were standing along the side.

The insurgents seem incapable of being beaten back, so you invade the DMZ. Half the province chiefs are corrupt, half the Vietnamese army won't fight, so you bomb Hanoi. A former premier of South Vietnam sat at lunch at the Caravelle Hotel and other day and carefully cut into an entrecote grille, sipped an American beer, and pronounced sadly, "The problem isn't the North Vietnamese army, it's the South Vietnamese government."

But tell that to the Marines fighting in Quang Tri province or the 4th Infantry Division 30 miles west of Pleiku.

The two stood watching each other, the sergeant from Columbus, Georgia, and the old man from a village in Vietnam. The American pulled up his M-16 rifle, the light, automatic weapon manufactured by Colt of Connecticut, and said to be the finest rifle ever made, and leveled it at the old man's chest.

The Vietnamese began slowly to weep, somehow without losing his dignity or breaking the stare. Wisps of beard grew from a wattled chin and neck, and then his legs began to shake.

Norton was solicitous that the lady not get hurt. In fact, whenever the lady went she found tough, experienced American officers who were concerned for her safety.

"Charlie is everywhere," they would say.

She couldn't understand it. In the Second World War she lived in the trenches with a steel helmet along with the rest of them. The danger was equal. You went where you had to go, and took your chances along with everybody else.

She recalled to Norton a mortar attack they had both survived in France. There had been no solicitude then. There had even been — and here there is certain to be misunderstanding, but I know no other word — a certain exhilaration.

Now there was no exhilaration, only a kind of clammy "Charlie-is-everywhere" psychology. There was no sense, the lady said, of fighting the good fight. It all seemed so unequal.

What she meant was that the Americans had assembled the most formidable fighting force in the world to defeat half-naked natives. This was the effect, leaving aside for the moment that the half-naked natives were remarkable fighters, and seldom half-naked.

Non-Science Masked By the Numbers Game

By MORTON MINTZ

There are 10 million such women. The number destined to become victims of maternal mortality is 30 (computed by applying the deathrate of 12 per 100,000 to 250,000 women).

What has created confusion is the application of that same rate to the 10 million. That is an irrelevant computation because, as already noted, 9.75 million of the total number of women do not become pregnant. Now, suppose all of the 10 million women had taken the pills. The death rate would (at the stated rate of 3 per 100,000 users) number 300 — 10 times as many as would occur with the other contraceptive methods.

All of the foregoing is apart from other, crucial considerations that cannot be ignored by those women for whom complete efficacy is not a synonym for safety.

One such consideration is that the number of non-fatal clots — some of which are permanently disabling — is many times greater than those that kill.

A second consideration is that while almost all pregnancies are reported, there is an acknowledged gross under-reporting of adverse drug effects, the pills included.

And a third consideration is that serious and sometimes fatal diseases other than clotting, including cancer, have not been scientifically excluded from association with the pills.

World Without Law Unless UN Supported

The Arab-Israeli conflict is too profoundly human to be susceptible to easy solution. But then so is that over Kashmir and so was the Greco-Turkish, but populations far larger than those displaced in the Palestine war have been resettled in the past and peace made.

That possibility, long downgraded by most of the medicine men on whom we depend for wisdom in such matters, was being recognized after, not before, some 11 million women had come to use the pills.

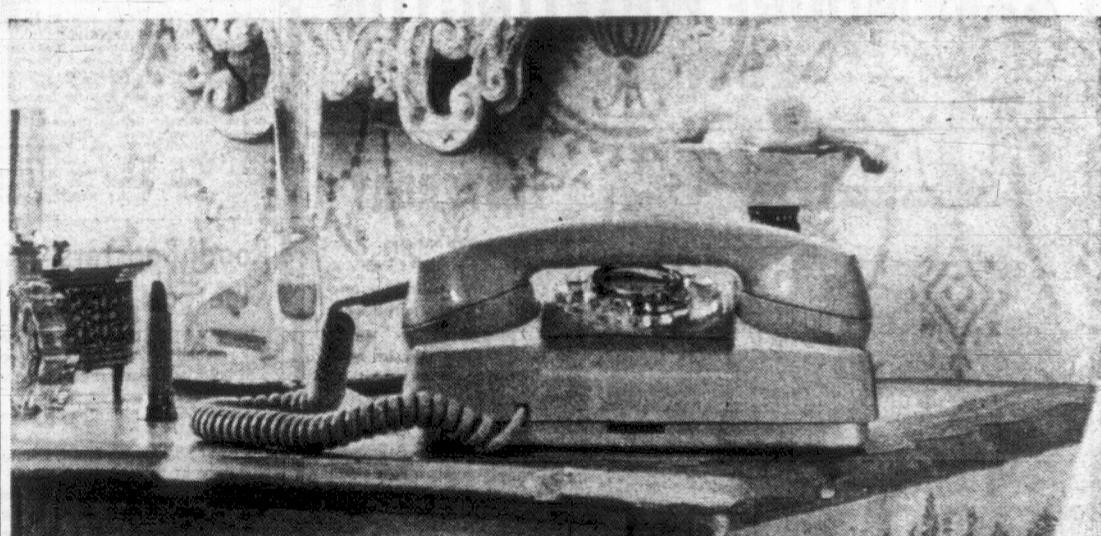

One can see the tremor in a doctor's hand as he puts the warning whistle to his lips. One can see why drags in irrelevancies as massive as traffic deaths. Why not say

Reprisal has proven a poor long-range remedy. It was the fear of an Israeli reprisal action against Syria, with the blow that might have struck Nasser's prestige in the Arab world, which led to the demand that the UN forces be withdrawn from Sinai and the new crisis. Israel was created by the UN, the 1956 war was stopped through the UN, this is a UN problem. But all the powers, great and small alike, have defied and ignored the UN when their purposes seemed served thereby.

Now when the UN is so badly needed, it may have become too weak. And the smoke which rises from burning Hanoi and Haiphong darkens the scene, making international co-operation between the superpowers more difficult than ever.

Esquimalt to Rehear Panhandle Proposal

A new bid to amalgamate the View Royal panhandle with the municipality of Esquimalt will be made at Esquimalt council meeting tonight.

But definite action from council is not likely this evening.

She said that with so many

Mrs. W. P. Rankin, organizer of the move for amalgamation which has twice been defeated in plebiscites, "said she has signatures from 69 per cent of the residents in the area.

"I think all that's needed will be approval from Esquimalt and from the provincial municipal affairs department."

But Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant said the council will proceed with caution on the matter.

"As everyone knows," he said, "this question has come before the people before. We want to be absolutely sure that the thinking of the department and the minister is before we take any action."

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell wouldn't comment directly on the proposed amalgamation, but he hinted he was pleased.

"This petition has not been referred to us yet," he said, "but I would like to point out that residents of North Kamloops and Kamloops voted 70 per cent in favor of amalgamation this weekend."

Asked if this might be an indication of the future of the View Royal panhandle, the minister replied "there is a certain inevitability about common sense."

Take Care In Big Move To Outdoors

By HILDA BEATAILL

At last the opportunity has arrived for house plants to be moved outdoors for summer.

This must not be taken as the signal for a wholesale move of every plant in the house to the great outdoors, for some are not suited to the life any more than a battery-raised chick would survive on the open prairie.

Some thought must be given to the type of plant and its native environment.

As a general rule, the tropical foliage plants such as philodendrons, dieffenbachias, aechmeas and crotons will do less well out of doors in our climate than in the house.

So leave these indoors for the summer. If a tray of stones can be arranged beneath the pots to create humidity around the foliage, so much the better. The plants will be healthier to go into next winter, and the same tray arrangement carried through winter will prove beneficial.

Potted azaleas and poinsettias are two of the commonest house plants to go out for summer. The azalea will want plenty of moisture and a spot shaded from "hot afternoon sun; the poinsettia after being repotted into a fresh rich soil mixture, will respond to the warmest, sunniest corner outdoors where watering will not be forgotten.

DAPPLED SUN

The Christmas-flowering cactus likes a dappled sun and shade position outdoors, while the desert cacti will take full sunshine all day.

It must be remembered that desert cacti have their roots deep down in cool sand, so that a good way to summer these plants when potted, is to bury the pots to their rims in sand.

The gardener with an artistic hand can arrange a simulated desert garden in an area as big as a child's sandbox, using a few barrowed loads of sand and a couple of rounded boulders.

A collection of cacti outdoors for the summer in a suitable environment takes on a new interest, and as a bonus many of the plants may burst into bloom the following year after the sunbake.

MOSCOW HAS PROOF U.S. BOMBED SHIP

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union said today it has material evidence—an unexploded U.S. shell—to prove that American warplanes attacked a Soviet merchant ship in North Vietnam last Friday.

The Soviet news agency Tass quoted the captain of the Soviet coaster Turkestan as saying a 20-millimeter cannon shell "was discovered during an inspection of the damaged ship." Tass said the shell "is standard armament of American dive bombers."

The United States replied to a formal Kremlin protest with a note saying no American warplane was within three miles of the Turkestan when the alleged attack took place in Cam-Pha harbor, 50 miles north of Haiphong.

The U.S. command said the marines rolled up their lopsided victory below the big marine base at Da Nang against a crack regiment after two days

Marines Claim Lopsided Win

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. marines of intense fighting. The Communist regiment, estimated about 3,000 men before the battle, slipped away to the North Saturday under intense air and artillery hammering.

Two U.S. planes were downed over North Vietnam during the weekend, bringing the number of U.S. combat planes reported lost over the North to 57.

The U.S. has so far lost 20 planes in aerial combat.

TODAY'S INFORMED BUILDERS RECOMMEND OIL HEAT

And here are the reasons:

ECONOMY:

Tests prove oil heating costs less than half the cost of electric heating and up to 30 per cent less than natural gas.

SAFETY:

Oil is the most accident proof fuel. It won't burn unless atomized or ignited in the sealed combustion chamber of the furnace.

CLEANLINESS:

Oil heating causes no streaking or dirt spots on walls; warm air is filtered clean and creates a healthy atmosphere for your family.

HOT WATER:

The recovery rate of an oil-fired hot water system is four times faster than with gas, and six times faster than with electricity.

DEPENDABILITY:

Furnace oil in your own oil tank is valuable assurance against variations in gas line pressure, leaks or breaks.

CONVENIENCE:

Fully automatic oil heating requires no more than the flick of a thermostat. Regular metered delivery is a service of all oil suppliers.

SERVICE:

Free annual servicing to your automatic oil furnace and emergency service when required.

CHOICE OF SUPPLIER:

In Victoria a choice of 31 independent oil suppliers assures customers of excellent service, high standards and competitive prices.

CUSTOMER PREFERENCE:

A recent survey of 2,200 custom homes showed that an overwhelming 70 per cent requested oil heating.

Satisfied home-owners recommend builders who recommend oil heat!

PORT ANGELES DAY

Americans Land, Sip Tea; Return Engagement Brews

By PAUL WILLIAMSON
Americans, 700-strong, invaded Canada Saturday — but it was a friendly invasion.

They came to celebrate Greater Victoria Centennial Society's Port Angeles Day.

Most of them were school aged children who arrived on the early morning sailing of the MV Coho and whisked out to Oak Bay to participate in the tea party.

The official party arrived on the Coho at 1:30 p.m., led by three water skiers and the Island Tug and Barge fire boat.

Port Angeles Mayor Charles Wilson led the official party ashore where they boarded a double decker London bus and drove to Centennial Square, followed by the Port Angeles High School marching band and hundreds of tag-alongs.

TOURED SQUARE

Mayor Hugh Stephen welcomed them at city hall and took Mayor Wilson and Mrs. Wilson on a tour of Centennial Square.

Meanwhile the visitors gathered in the square where they were entertained by a group of young Indian dancers from Taholah, 180 miles south of Port Angeles.

The leader of the Indian group, Clarence Pickernell, told the crowds that the Taholah Indians are the southernmost tribe of totem culture Indians and therefore the southernmost tribe have-

GENERAL DIES IN PLANE FLIP

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Lt.-Gen. Glen R. Burchard, commander-in-chief of the Alaska command, and his pilot were drowned Saturday when their plane overturned on takeoff from Upper Ugashik Lake near here.

Two other passengers, Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Cunningham, Commander of the 22nd Air Force military airlift command, and Edward A. Beltringer, Alaskan command personnel division, were able to swim to shore.

Mr. Gosley, who first suggested the exchange five years ago, also said he hopes it will become an annual event.

Attitudes of the visitors as they boarded the Coho for the trip home indicated that both ideas have a good chance of being adopted.

As the ship pulled away from the dock, the crowds on the ship and on the wharf joined together singing along with Al Denon's accordion.

Fraser Nears Danger Level Around Mission

VANCOUVER (CP) — Warmest weather of the year Sunday sent the Fraser River water-level gauge at Mission over the 19-foot mark for the first time since 1964.

Danger level is 20 feet.

The weatherman said the outlook is for warm weather throughout B.C. until Saturday.

Dike patrols are expected to be organized in the Fraser Valley by mid-week, said diking inspector William Meighen. They generally start when the river hits 22 feet.

Sunday, the river at Mission was rising at the rate of one inch every five hours. A slowdown from its rise of two feet between Friday morning and Sunday morning.

Along with the Fraser's rise, the Kootenay and the Columbia were moving upward as well. Flooding was reported Sunday at Quesnel by the owner of an auto court next to the Fraser bridge. He said water covered much of his property to a depth of about 2½ feet. The river level at Quesnel had climbed almost three feet since Friday.

Hippies Go Home When Police Do

WINNIPEG (CP) — A second successive night of teen-age demonstrations in Winnipeg petered out early Sunday with a good natured splash in the Memorial Park pool.

Police, who had ringed the park as a crowd of about 1,000 Hippies gathered in a noisy mood, withdrew from the vicinity after midnight. The gesture had an almost immediate effect and by 1 a.m. all but a few diehards had dispersed.

Three youths were reportedly arrested — one at city hall and two at the park where a small reviewing stand set up for Princess Alexandra's visit Tuesday was wrecked. This was in sharp contrast to Friday night's mob scene in which up to 3,000 stormed through downtown streets and 28 were taken into custody.

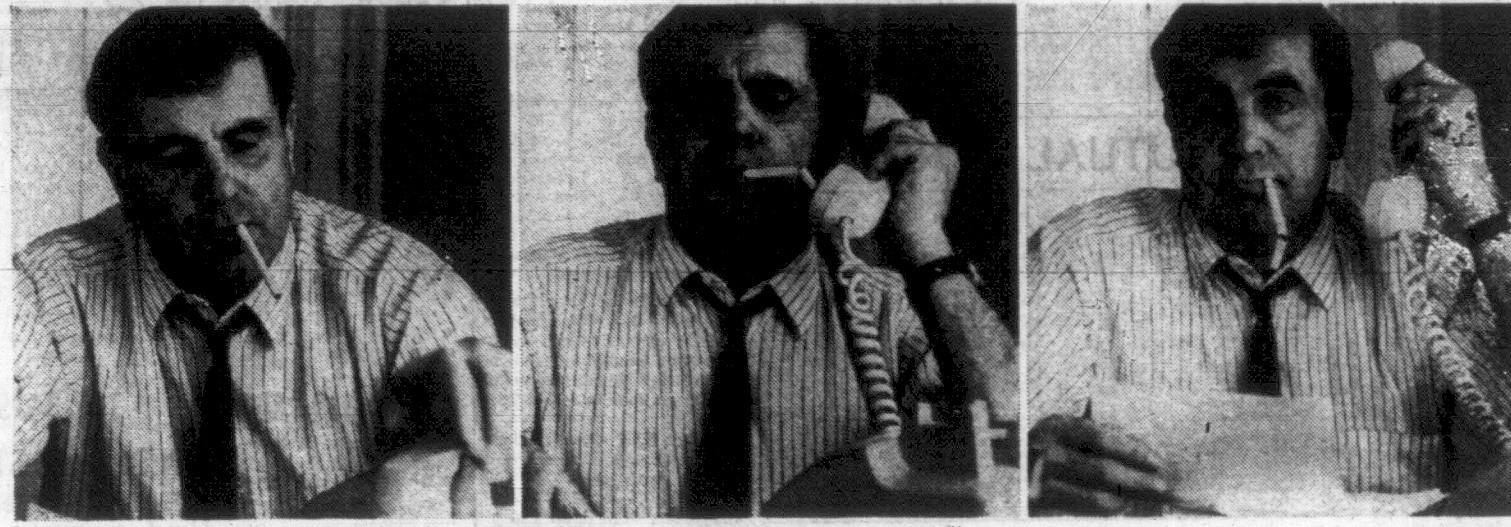

Saturday night's disturbance started on an ugly note when an estimated 1,000 youths gathered at the park. They marched toward city hall on Main Street, some shouting "We want war."

Police Chief George Blow met them at city hall and told them to leave quietly. They returned to the park and clustered around the 100-foot square fountain pool where the fountains had been turned off earlier.

Workmen's Compensation Coverage Marks First Half Century

Centennial year is also the 50th anniversary year of workmen's compensation coverage in B.C.

Before 1917, the future was bleak for an injured worker and his family.

Unless the employer was altruistic, his only recourse for compensation was to sue in the courts.

And the Workmen's Compensation Board, in marking its 50th birthday, noted that the number of court decisions in favor of the employer "far outweighed" those for the employee.

The employers won about 80 per cent of the cases.

British Columbia followed the lead of Ontario and the B.C. Workmen's Compensation Act, which took effect Jan. 1, 1917, established three key principles:

- Compensation costs were to be paid by employers on the collective liability basis;

- The common law right of action by workers against employers was discontinued;

- Liability without fault was incorporated.

"This radical change in the procedure of handling industrial accident cases has been described as British Columbia's first major piece of social legislation," said the board.

"The Workmen's Compensation Act, though controversial at times, has proved to be one of the most worthwhile laws in this province over the past 50 years.

"It has not only provided nearly $500 million in financial and other assistance to workers and their families, but it also has permitted the board to draft and enforce industrial accident prevention regulations and adequate first aid service requirements for the protection of the two-year-old royal commission report.

The safety work of the board, in co-operation with labor and management, has had a marked effect on decreasing the accident frequency rate in most sectors of industrial life in B.C."

When workmen's compensation started, 75,000 workers at 6,000 companies were covered. Today, 500,000 workers and 37,000 employers are under the act.

The cost of claims during the first year was $851,024. It was $28.4 million last year.

The history of workmen's compensation and changes since 1917 are detailed in an addendum to the board's 1966 annual report.

A fitting finale to the first 50 years of workmen's compensation would have been implementation of the proposed new act in 1962 and the report delivered in 1965. The only changes since then have been pension increases and the introduction of a cost-of-living bonus factor.

The test will then be whether a disability was work-caused, rather than having to relate it to some instantaneous and obvious mishap.

Imports Increase Over April 1966

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's import balance of trade position shifted to a big import balance of $73,400,000 in April as purchases from abroad increased 25.7 per cent.

April imports totalled $973,700,000, compared with $774,700,000 in April, 1966. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

April exports were $900,400,000, up 16.4 per cent from $773,500,000 a year earlier.

The import balance of $73,400,000 compared with a corresponding import balance of $1,200,000 in 1966.

For the cumulative four-month period imports were up 17.3 per cent to $3,496,000,000 and exports up 17.2 per cent to $3,528,100,000. This created an export balance of $32,100,000, compared with $30,800,000 a year earlier.

DBS said $60,000,000 of the April imports represented an unusual backlog of import documents referring to previous months' activities.

Cassius Spurns Plea to Change Stand on Draft

(Times News Services)

Ignoring the arguments of other Negro athletes, Cassius Clay stood firm today on his refusal to serve in the United States army.

Clay will go on trial in two weeks in Federal Court in Houston for refusing to be inducted into the army.

Former Cleveland Browns fullback Jimmy Brown, UCLA basketball star Lew Alcindor, Boston Celtics' player-coach Bill Russell and seven other athletes held what Brown described as a "heated" discussion Sunday with Clay about his position on the draft.

Clay emerged from the meeting to report "nothing new."

"They know I'm completely sincere," Clay said. "I actually believe in the Muslim religion."

Clay's final appeal for a draft deferral was on the grounds he was a Black Muslim minister to whom boxing was only a hobby.

The World Boxing Association stripped Clay of his heavyweight crown when he refused induction but the 24-year-old boxer said:

The hunch bettors see the connection between Dominion Day, his Canadian owner and Canada's centennial year as a natural for the 188th running of the classic, and the dark bay horse has been backed down to 4 to 1.

Dominion Day has never won a race in his three previous starts and on the form looks like a risky pick behind 7-to-4 choice Royal Palace.

Bell says he likes the odds, but will not place a bet.

Bell is head of an ownership syndicate that includes singer Bing Crosby oilman Frank McMahon.

Carlings in Split With Nanaimo Club

Carlings, of the Senior Men's Open Softball League, grabbed a 6-0 victory in the opener but dropped a 5-2 decision in the second game to split an exhibition doubleheader with Nanaimo O'Keefes Sunday at Central Park.

Carlings' Glen Langsett blanked Nanaimo on three hits in the opener. Langsett was rarely in trouble. No O'Keefe runner reached third base.

Shortstop Bob Holness' grand slam home run with two out in the fourth, provided Langsett with plenty of breathing space. O'Keefes scored three times

Century Fires Late Barrage

Century Inn of the Stuffy McGinnis Softball League belted four home runs in the closing frame to wrap up a 15-6 victory in the second game of an exhibition doubleheader against Lake Cowichan Elks at Heywood Avenue Park Sunday.

Don Frampton, Gerry Mulolland, John Paul and Ron Sweeney all had circuitous blows during the Century club's 13-run last-inning outburst.

Lake Cowichan won the first game, 10-2.

In regular league contests William Head split a couple-header with King's Hotel, losing the opener 11-7 before downing Kings 7-3 in the nightcap. Bottle Exchange defeated Sooke Hotel, 6-2.

The News of the World says

NOBODY DOUBTS HIS COURAGE

Right leg in a cast, Canada's Cool Reception backs gingerly into his stall at Aqueduct after running the stretch to win by three-quarters of a length over front-running Make Money. Pretense was another 3½ lengths back in third place.

Native Diver, the eight-year-old favorite, finished down the race track in his third effort to win the Californian.

At Chicago Fleet Admiral won the $3,650 Olympia Handicap at Arlington Park Saturday for his fifth straight victory.

Fleet Admiral, ridden by Cliff Stone, nailed the front-running Bay Phantom just before the wire and drew out quickly to win by three-quarters of a length before a crowd of 7,522 fans.

Our Michael, the favorite, was five lengths back in third in the seven-furlong race.

At Vancouver's Exhibition Park, the Jimmy Halket-trained Westbury Road turned it on in the stretch to win the $5,000-added Lansdowne Handicap in a rousing photo finish before 7,522 fans.

E.C.'s horst - of - the - year in 1966, Westbury Road was expertly ridden by Dennis Tierney to nose out Prince Aylmer and Jeff D in the one-mile, 70-yard feature.

The gallant Canadian-owned Cool Reception fractured a cannon bone in his right foreleg 90 yards from the end of the 1½-mile event and finished a fast fading second in a race that brought a sudden end to his racing career.

The cannon bone is comparable to a human shinbone.

An operation was scheduled this morning in an attempt to pin the shattered ends of the bone together and save the life of the three-year-old son of Neartie owned by Mrs. Vince Reid of Toronto and Mrs. William Seitz of Montreal.

MAY SURVIVE

Dr. William Reed, owner of a horse hospital adjacent to the Belvoir race track, site of the Belmont, x-rayed the leg minutes after the race then said: "... the horse's chances of survival are reasonably good."

But trainer Lou Cavalaris Jr. said later in the barn that the racing career was over for Canada's top two-year-old male. "Red-eyed and husky-voiced, he said:

"Best thing we can say is that he was a good horse."

"That's what makes racing. There's no such thing as a sure thing."

The tall, handsome chestnut with a startling white-blazed forehead had been pointed through his short racing life at the June 24 Queen's Plate at Toronto's Woodbine track, Canada's premier thoroughbred event.

Now they are fighting to save his life.

RAN ON GUTS'

Jockey Johnny Sellers said after the race:

"I felt him falter at the 16th pole and he was really numb after the race."

"Boy, he ran that last 16th on guts."

The injury occurred after Cool Reception had beaten back a challenge by Kentucky Derby winner Proud Clarion and was accepting the challenge of Preakness champion, Damascus, which had driven from deep in the pack to second at the head of the stretch to win by 2½ lengths in two minutes, 28.43 seconds, about two-fifths ahead of Cool Reception.

Sellers took Cool Reception out of the seventh hole fast, chasing down early leader Prinkipo at the first turn and controlling the race for the next

Reception ran last sixteenth of a mile on heart alone after breaking cannon bone (equivalent to human shinbone) in his right foreleg. (AP Wirephoto.)

Not a bad hit off the tees, Bridge rates as a better-than-average putter and can be classed as one of those "down-the-middle" types.

"I don't care how far they go off the tees," he said Sunday, "as long as they go straight."

"I just putt them down the middle."

That just about summed up his success Sunday. He was never in any great trouble and counted on his steady putting to move into the tie with Hunt.

Bridge had 29 putts on his morning round and took 34 in the afternoon.

SECOND FOR KENNEDY

He three-putted only one green.

His cards showed five birdies,

24 pars, six bogeys and one (ouch) double-booby.

The hole-in-one shooters who provided the extra fireworks in Sunday's play — Lawson and Kennedy — both scored their aces on the hidden, "punchbowl" 14th.

Lawson, an Uplands junior, is the son of one of Victoria's best-known husband-and-wife golfing teams — Joan and Ken Lawson.

For Kennedy, it was his second ace in less than three months. He fired a hole-in-one in the Good Friday tournament at Uplands on March 24.

BALKY DRIVER

Although he still is very much in contention, Kerr was disappointed with his position. He carded a fine, one-under-par 72 to pace the field after the morning round. Laurie followed it up with a 79 in the afternoon, blaming most of his problems on his balky driver.

"I just couldn't seem to get off the tees," said Laurie.

Only the low 24 scorers (and ties) qualify for next Sunday's show-down round. Making the grade were all who scored 162 or better.

North Saanich, Oaks Create Rare Track Tie

With all the points available, including halves, you'd think a deadlock for the aggregate team title in a track and field meet would border impossibility.

Royal Oak and North Saanich managed to break down that barrier of rarity Saturday. Each wound up with exactly 192½ points to share the team trophy in the annual Saanich, Sooke and Gulf Island junior high school track and field championships at Victoria Secondary. Mt. Newton, third with 187½ points, was a mere five points short of making it a three-way split. Edward Milne was fourth with 141, followed by Gulf Island, 84½; John Stubbs, 35; Dunsuir, 32, and Elizabeth Fisher, 30½.

Leaders Checked By Oak Bay Bats

Bowlers enjoyed their innings, Saturday, but Sunday was a day for draws and batmen in the Victoria and District Cricket Association.

Alcos defeated Castaways by three wickets Saturday. With George Payne leading Alcos' attack by capturing six wickets for only 10 runs, Castaways were dismissed for only 23 runs. Alcos reached 40 only after losing seven wickets.

Dick Hales took five for 16 for Castaways.

RICHARDS SHINES

Both of Sunday's matches ended in draws. Incogs were all out for 120 and Albion replied with 111 for seven at University School. At Windsor Park, Oak Bay scored 154 for seven declared and undefeated Cowichan replied with 142 for six before time ran out.

Martin Richards led Oak Bay batting, scoring 73 not out, while Peter Clarke, with 59, and Dave Auld, 54 not out, paced Cowichan.

Oak Bay's John Brazier took four for 20 to lead the attack against Cowichan.

Nick Prowse, with 36, and Jim Wenman, with 20, were Incogs' leading batters while Les Clark scored 29 for Albion.

Gorge Golfers Take Top Turnney Prizes

Gorge Vale golfers collected the major prizes Saturday in the fifth annual Mr. and Mrs. tournament at the Royal Colwood course.

Earning the fairway title of Mr. and Mrs. Victoria for 1967 after completing the 18-hole event with a net score of 146 were Andy and Dorothy DeGruilham. They had a two-stroke margin in the handicap event for the Corp's Trophy over the Colwood couple of Don and Edith McCormick.

Adding to the Gorge awards were Dave and Shirley Naysmith, winners of the low gross championship. Next in line were Colwood rivals Vic and Oona Painter, who had a total score of 166, two strokes more than the winners.

Upplands Juniors Take Six of Eight Places

There'll be something of an Upplands invasion when the district's golf club—swinging youngsters move into Vancouver July 10-12 for the B.C. junior championships.

There may be more, eight are guaranteed to go. The eight were picked by the Victoria District Golf Committee for an expense-free jaunt.

Players are selected on the strength of their showing in the 36-hole city junior tournament and the first 36 holes of the city amateur.

Upplands juniors have picked off six of the eight berths. And a seventh Upplands junior, Dave Zabel, who just missed the list by two strokes, was named alternate.

Leading the parade was city junior champion Mike Gray, with a 72-hole score of 306.

The eight are (with qualifying scores shown in brackets):

CONVICTIONS EASIER

Child Beating Earns Widespread Contempt

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Short stories, thin headlines and a minimum of facts publicized the sentence given recently to a man who abused his two-year-old daughter.

We were told in a few words that he had beaten the child after she had soiled her diaper. He then put her into a bath of hot water and a scald resulted.

He pleaded guilty to the charge and was given a two month jail sentence. According to the reports he leaves at home a young pregnant wife and four children.

If we are ever to control the abuse and battering of children by parents and relatives, this is the sort of thing that should be given headlines that cannot be missed.

The story should be told and retold and the punishment highlighted through every possible medium in order that others who are doing the same thing, or worse, will know and perhaps be deterred.

NOT ISOLATED

This is not an isolated case you must remember. There are many children being battered and abused every day of the year.

A 1966 review compiled by the department of social welfare tells of studies made in 47 such cases "where serious harm was done to the child." These covered 44 family units throughout the province.

As might be expected (but hard to believe) the children involved were mostly babies (23 were under two years of age.) Fourteen cases were reported before the child was six years old.

Seven children, all under six years and four under two, died because of the batterings. Two of the three who suffered brain damage were less than a year old.

In other instances brutalities ranged from the obviously severe "which probably required hospitalization for quite a time" to cases where there was no knowledge of medical care.

The report "presumes" that in the majority of cases a parent made the attack but "this is often not stated." It is the same thing in regard to the "fate of the person attacking the child." Records did not clearly reveal if there was any punishment.

PARENTS MENTAL

In only three cases was there mention of charges being laid and in one of these where the parents were implicated, the case was dismissed by the judge. In four instances a parent was subsequently admitted to mental hospital.

This is not pleasant reading for a summer day in June but abuses of children know no season. And it is only through aroused public conscience that the law will be able to reach out and control such abuses.

Until this year it was difficult for anyone to accuse without material evidence to corroborate the accusation.

In her maiden speech at the last session of the legislature, Hon. Grace McCarthy, Minister Without Portfolio, pointed the fast and asked for changes in the law.

ACT AMENDED

Later in the session an amendment to the Protection of Children Act was passed, making it possible for any person having knowledge of a battered or an abused child to give the facts to the proper authorities.

A new clause reads: "Every person having information of the abandonment, desertion, physical ill treatment, or need for protection of a child shall report the information to a children's aid society or to the Superintendent of Child Welfare or his duly appointed representative." A second clause notes that this applies notwithstanding that the information is confidential or privileged."

In other words the way is now clear for a doctor, teacher, a neighbor or any other person to give information without fear of reprisal.

When more people realize this and as they accept responsibility for coming forward and telling what they see and know, identification, protection and treatment of children who have had injuries inflicted upon them by their parents or others responsible for their care, and the punishment of such offenders, will be made much easier.

GUNS BOOM SALUTES

Scandinavians Invade St. Lawrence River

By BORIS MISKEV

MONTREAL (CP)—A small Scandinavian armada invaded the world's fair Sunday under a scorching sun that gave fairgoers a preview of what is in store for them before the end of Montreal's short hot summer.

Cannon fire thundered across the St. Lawrence River as the three ships—a Swedish destroyer, a Finnish frigate and a Danish frigate—sailed under the Jacques Cartier Bridge.

Each of the three ships fired 21-guns salutes as they approached Montreal harbor and the Expo 67 site and their salutes were returned by a Canadian shore battery at the tip of Cite du Havre where the warships tied up.

The arrival made Expo officials change their prediction that the 10,000,000 visitor will visit the fair this morning. They said Sunday night that it will be sometime tonight before this visitor clicks the turnstiles.

A high temperature of 88 degrees was recorded and it will be mainly sunny with a chance of thundershower late today. The temperature is expected to climb to 85.

The weekend crowd was somewhat lower than forecast because of a drop in the number of visitors Saturday when only 296,331 persons went through the turnstiles compared to the predicted figure of 303,450.

The decline made Expo officials change their prediction that the 10,000,000 visitor will visit the fair this morning. They said Sunday night that it will be sometime tonight before this visitor clicks the turnstiles.

Two Tourists Killed

BOSTON BAR (CP)—Two American tourists were killed Friday and their wives injured when their car blew a tire, went out of control and rolled over several times, ending on its roof.

The victims were identified as Philip Olsen, 58, of Portland, and Charles Retzuli, 76 of Seattle.

GRAHAM EVANGELIZES PACKED-OUT STADIUM

WINNIPEG (CP)—Evangelist Billy Graham wound up his Winnipeg stay Sunday before a crowd of 25,000, largest of his eight-day crusade here.

The throng filled Winnipeg Stadium on a sunny but blustery afternoon, overflowing into the adjoining baseball bleachers and the surface of the football field.

The pilot had shown Thomaz how to make the aircraft climb and descend and how to operate the throttles.

Revolt by Students Disturbs UBC Head

VANCOUVER (CP) — Strikes, rebellions and demonstrations by students and teachers pose a threat to academic freedom and the status of universities, the retiring president of the University of British Columbia said Friday.

Dr. John Macdonald told the UBC convocation that current university disturbances are "particularly disturbing."

Dr. Macdonald, in his last major public engagement before leaving June 30, made the remarks after receiving an honorary doctorate of science. He also received a citation of honor for his five years as president.

He said the future of academic freedom and university autonomy is perhaps the most important issue affecting welfare and survival of universities.

N. America Left Behind

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Italy won its ninth successive world contract bridge championship Sunday night by defeating North America in a 128-1 deal match, 338 international match points to 227.

All but three of Italy's 111 points, its victory margin, were gained in her second half.

When the second half of the two-day match got underway Sunday afternoon the Italians led by only 162 to 159. But no sooner had play started than the Italian team began to exhibit the form that has carried it through every Bermuda Bowl championship since 1957.

North American team members included Sammy Kehela and Eric Murray of Toronto.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Warren commission said Oswald acted alone and it had no evidence of a conspiracy. The justice department statement said the department "is convinced that Lee Harvey Oswald alone assassinated President Kennedy."

"Compounding the difficulties arising from misunderstanding are new forms of organized political activity by students and faculty in which the campus is used as a base for attacks on various aspects of society," he said.

"These activities sometimes have involved demonstrations, strikes, sit-ins, civil disobedience, violence and demagoguery. They represent new dimensions in political protest."

Dr. Macdonald said he was not speaking against dissent or civil disobedience, "but only of kinds of behavior . . . which constitute a threat to academic freedom."

IN OWN FIELD

Academic freedom is the right of a teacher to express opinion within his special field of competence. Dr. Macdonald said, but "academic freedom does not give him special rights in other fields."

Dr. Macdonald said it is an obvious but neglected fact that pressure, strikes and demonstrations interfere with freedom to teach — which is a violation of academic freedom.

"Likewise, though not the same thing, the student's freedom to learn should be protected," he said.

PEARSON TELLS AUSSIE

Bigger Role for Peacemakers

By HENRY HEALD
OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and Australia have much in common and should work together more closely for world peace, both through the Commonwealth and the United Nations, Prime Minister Pearson said Sunday.

In a brief message of greeting to Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt at the official welcoming ceremonies for the Australian leader and Mrs. Holt on Parliament Hill, Mr. Pearson said the two senior dominions had an obligation to consult together on matters of mutual interest "and those matters are becoming more and more numerous."

In reply Mr. Holt paid tribute to Canada's contribution to the United Nations which he said had been influential beyond the country's numerical size. He gave a special word of praise for Mr. Pearson's personal dedication to the United Nations cause.

He suggested the two countries together could contribute more significantly to the peace progress and prosperity of the world.

ARRIVED EARLY

"We have already talked of this in an informal way," he said, alluding to the fact that he had arrived in Ottawa 24 hours before the official centennial visit began and had spent the time with the Pearsons at the prime minister's Harrington Lake summer home.

Mr. Pearson said he welcomed the opportunity to consult with the Australian leader "on world crises."

The more than 60 visits of heads of state and government leaders during Centennial Year gives the prime minister an unprecedented opportunity to discuss world affairs and particularly the dual trouble spots, Vietnam and the Middle East. U.S. President Johnson eliminated all the frills of the Ottawa end of his visit to spend the time in consultation with Mr. Pearson at his summer home.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, whose visit last week also was curtailed due to the tense situation in the Middle East, went through the formalities of the official welcome on Parliament Hill, but spent nearly all the rest of the time in private talks with Mr. Pearson and external affairs department officials.

The talks with Mr. Holt were the most extensive to date. In addition to the informal visit at Harrington Lake, Mr. Holt was the prime minister's guest at dinner Sunday night and the two men met for more formal talks in the Parliament Buildings today.

Mr. and Mrs. Holt arrived in Montreal on Saturday and were given a reception at Dorval Airport by Lionel Chevrier, commissioner general for state 2,000 people, including a vocal contingent of local Australians.

At the official welcome on Sunday in 88-degree sunshine to Parliament Hill Sunday about watch the ceremonies.

Bare Bear Trouble

The first 50 years of workers' compensation in B.C. have seen nearly 2.5 million work injuries reported in the province.

They have also seen some unusual claims.

A logger in 1918, for example, was shot in his bed at night by a fellow worker after being mistaken for a bear. The wound was not fatal.

An irate logger in 1940 claimed for a chest injury which occurred when he ran into a tree while chasing a bear which had stolen his lunch from a stump. The bear escaped with the lunch.

A Vancouver man filed a claim in 1951 for a head injury which he said was caused when he bumped his head on a counter at work.

Investigation proved he struck his head on a pool table while retrieving a ball he had knocked off the table.

An unusual claim in 1954 concerned a waitress who was lifting a basket of dishes when a metal stay in her corset snapped and pierced her abdomen. She was not seriously hurt.

SMITHERS (CP) — A 1,000 acre fire at Blunt Creek, 15 miles northeast of Smithers, was brought under control Sunday, a forest service spokesman said.

The blaze was one of four near Smithers in Central B.C. The other three fires were never out of control.

The Blunt Creek fire broke out of control Friday as high winds fanned the flames. Eight bulldozers and 80 men were used to combat the blaze.

Filling their pages with pictures and blanket coverage of the two crashes—one at Perpignan, France, Saturday, which killed 88 persons and the second in central England Sunday which killed 72—the seven national dailies gave equal prominence on page one of their calls and made off with furs, cash for an investigation into the and jewelry.

Air Crash Probe Demanded

LONDON (Reuters) — The British press united today in sorrow and anger to demand re-examination of air safety regulations as Britain counted a death toll of 160 killed during the weekend in two air crashes.

In Stockport, England, a team of doctors completed emergency operations on the 12 survivors of the second crash in which a four-engined Argonaut airliner hit a 30,000-volt electric power sub-station and fell into the centre of the industrial town.

The plane was on a charter flight returning vacationers from Palma in Majorca. It crashed in flames only four miles from nearby Manchester airport to which it was heading.

Most papers pointed out that there were several factors common to both crashes: Both air-

For over 63 years our distillery has produced many fine whiskies... for all parts of Canada and 116 other countries. So why produce one whisky just for British Columbia? That's what we asked ourselves. So we decided to let Double Distilled die. Stop promoting it, we reasoned, and it will disappear. Then replace it with a national brand. Logical. But it didn't work that way. Even though we tried to ignore Double Distilled, we found that several thousand British Columbians were still demanding it. Now this is popularity you can't ignore, so we're going to make the most of it. From now on you'll be hearing about the unsurpassed quality and value of British Columbia's own whisky — B.C. DOUBLE DISTILLED.

ISLAND DIGEST

Hearing Due Next Week On Egg Board

A court hearing into the proposed formation of an egg marketing board is expected in the next week. The hearing will decide who has the right to vote on the board and what powers the board will have.

An injunction was granted by Mr. Justice J. E. Ruttan in Supreme Court here last Thursday preventing further action on formation of a marketing board until the hearing.

The injunction was obtained by lawyer Alan Macfarlane, representing small egg producers (those with less than 500 head of stock).

It was granted on the grounds that the original order-in-council allowing a plebiscite to be taken concerning a marketing board was worded "... conduct a plebiscite among commercial egg producers of British Columbia."

CHANGED

Mr. Macfarlane also claimed that the concept of a marketing board, as approved by the order, had been changed before going to the vote.

When the injunction was granted, ballot papers had already been mailed out to the 800 large egg producers in the province.

Returning officer McMurray, of Cloverdale, will not be allowed to count the ballots until the hearing.

If the small producers win their case — and the right to vote — they will outnumber the large producers.

It is estimated there are some 4,000 small producers in B.C.

Meanwhile, the cabinet late last week amended the order-in-council to read "... conduct a plebiscite among commercial egg producers of British Columbia having 500 or more head of poultry."

EGG PRICES

Large eggs took a two-cent drop today, mediums coming down one cent. Grade A large .28 26 Grade A medium .27 26 Grade A small .16 29 Grade B .22 35 Carton eggs two cents more.

DUNCAN—A game of "chicken" ended in death Sunday for 15-year-old Eddy Hollings.

The young high school student drowned while trying to hold his breath under water longer than friends. He died only a few yards from the shore of Somesos Lake, one mile north of here.

Within minutes of his failing to surface, friends had raised him to the surface.

But it was two hours later, at 6:50 p.m., when his body was recovered by skin divers.

With temperatures in the 70s, Eddy and three chums decided to cool off in the lake — a favorite spot.

GOOD SWIMMER

A good swimmer, Eddy had apparently bet his friends he could stay under longer than anyone else.

While the others looked on he dived.

For a time, nobody worried. But as the minutes ticked by and Eddy failed to reappear, they realized something must be wrong.

Three of the boys ran to the lakeside home of Mrs. J. M. Flanagan and raised the alarm. Others swam under water in a bid to find their friend before it was too late.

But there was no sign of him in the murky waters.

A student at Cowichan Senior Secondary School, Eddy was the foster child of Mr. and Mrs. Art Conley, of Wicks Road, Duncan. The couple have three children of their own and three foster children. Only last week

MAPLE BAY — A cairn to commemorate pioneers of the Prevost chapter of Native Sons, which was responsible for building the cairn.

Brief ceremonies at the site were conducted against a background of the Ss. Beaver, replica of the trading ship which 100 years ago plied the waters between Victoria and Maple Bay.

Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan told the several hundred spectators that when Maple Bay had a boat calling once a week it really felt civilization had arrived.

The reeve said in those early days it cost $1 to ship a packet of letters by sea from Maple Bay to Victoria.

Maple Bay was then the important trading centre for the district and as such a proper place to erect a memorial to the pioneers.

brothers who were among the first pioneers of the district.

THE TEA PARTY

Crashing Sound of Music Splinters Board of Trade

THERE WAS SOMETHING for everyone at the Oak Bay Centennial Tea Party Sunday afternoon even if it was only sitting, standing or strolling on the beach at Willows. Crowd stretched from Cavendish to Cattle Point along the waterfront where there was boat racing, water ski displays, kite skiing, sky diving, sailboats to admire and pretty girls to watch. (Photos by William John.)

He Hasn't Forgotten How to Win

Nobody broke any speed records in Sunday's sailing races at the Oak Bay Tea Party but persistent light breezes made racing pleasant.

Peter Townsend, back at the helm for the first time this season after sickness, celebrated by winning the Cub class in Roxy.

Ned Ash skippered May D II to win the Thunderbird class and Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes won the Cal 20 race.

Other winners were Charles Moy and Charles Pash, Sharks; Don Mc Gowan, Haidas; Bill Whithy, Sailortettes; Ralph and Glen Higgins; auxiliary cruisers, Sea Smoke; Brian Woodward, Flying Juniors; Steve Dufour, Bearcats; Brian Glover, X class; boat number 461, Fireballs; John Dewey, Enterprise.

Martin Schadelle won the Mary Tod Trophy as the overall winner in the swim. Ian Bruce was first in the men's section and Andrew Izard was second. Elizabeth Brumcombe and Diane Stewart tied for first place in the women's section.

17-POUNDER

Ray Deal won the Centennial Trophy and a tackle box for winning the salmon derby with a 17 lb. 12-oz. spring. Second was Ove Pederson with a 9 lb. 8-oz. fish to win a Centennial plaque and a set of rod holders. Third was Joe Maruka who won a Centennial plaque for his eight and a half-pounder.

Henry Mark won a tackle box in the dogfish derby with a 10-pounder.

WINNING ART ON DISPLAY IN VILLAGE

Six prize-winning pictures in the Oak Bay Tea Party art contest will be on display in the village at the National Trust office for the rest of this week.

Winner in the artistic excellence category was Alicia Allin with her study of Point No Point; second was Norma Pite with Sunlight in the Forest and third was Hyslop Ingman with Canecrake.

The popularity poll winner was J. George Jenkins with Last Leaves; second was Grace E. Smith's Pal Joey, and third was Stanley Hall, Near Banff.

Prizes were donated by Oak Bay merchants and the Centennial Committee.

More Houses, Fewer Apartments Erected in Saanich This Year

Houses are up and apartments are down in Saanich this year.

In the first five months of this year, permits have been issued for 177 houses and duplexes with a value of $3.1 million.

For the same period last year, permits for 166 dwellings worth $2.7 million were issued.

Apartment buildings with a value of more than $50,000 were in a slump this year.

Only one permit has been issued — for an 11-suite building worth $66,000.

170 Walk Out Over Suspension Of Truck Driver

The entire work force at Comox logging division of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. walked off the job this morning.

The walkout was in protest of the suspension last Thursday of truck driver Ken Bader.

A camp committee of six walked into the office this morning to ask management to reinstate Mr. Bader.

Outside, 170 boom men, yarding, loading and construction crews and truck drivers waited.

When the camp committee left the office a little later to inform them management had turned down the ultimatum, the men quietly left.

There was no picketing or heckling.

The men got into their cars and went home.

Said K. Lidberg, financial secretary of local 1-363 IWA: "The yard was empty within two minutes."

"The men feel that suspension for Mr. Bader is suspension for them all."

He said the trouble began when Mr. Bader was called in by management last week and told he would be suspended.

"No reason was given for the suspension," said Mr. Lidberg. "He was told he'd be informed of the reason by registered mail."

Another management spokesman said the company had nothing to say. He confirmed that no further meetings to discuss the situation had been arranged.

In the first five months of last year, there was a 34-suite building worth $280,000 and a 73-suite building worth $500,000.

In the city of Victoria, both apartment and house construction is up.

For the first five months of last year, permits were issued for 21 dwellings worth $292,728.

This year, 25 permits were issued for homes and duplexes worth $407,000.

Permits worth $6.1 million have been issued in Victoria this year compared with $6 million last year.

Thieves left a trail of food after breaking into a city grocery overnight Saturday.

A window was forced to get into Rusk's Food Market, 310 Catherine. Police said food was taken from a freezer and from the store's shelves and several items were apparently dropped as the burglars left by the window.

Fifty cents in pennies were taken from the till.

No-Hands Driver Loses Licence Hits Passenger,

A driver whose car weaved down Douglas Street while he was apparently hitting his passenger was fined $400 today.

Mr. Lidberg said the interference apparently referred to a brief exchange of words between Mr. Bader and a camp supervisor.

"He (Bader) simply answered some questions put to him by the supervisor. Apparently the supervisor took exception."

The walkout caused a complete shutdown at the yard.

There was no picketing or heckling.

The men got into their cars and went home.

During May, permits were issued for four apartment buildings with 109 suites and a value of $770,500.

Total construction values were slightly up in the city and down in Saanich.

Permits worth $6.1 million have been issued in Victoria this year compared with $6 million last year.

$100 SPEAKER CONES SHATTERED

Board of Trade

By TED GASKELL

Half a ton of beef, 1,500

erdmets,

7,000 hot dogs,

a small lake of tea and a cloud of cotton candy.

That's the kind of shopping list you'd make out if you were inviting 18,000 or 20,000 to tea as Oak Bay did at its Centennial Tea Party Saturday and Sunday.

Last year it was estimated that there were 15,000 on Willows Beach for the Sunday water show but there were more this year, said chairman Bert Kent. "They were spread right down to Cattle Point."

There must have been at least 1,000 in Willows Park Saturday evening for what was billed as a dance.

But of the 500 or so around the bandstand only a dozen or so went through the motions and even fewer tapped their feet. It was a watching and listening affair.

The afternoon Spectacle of Bands was a great audience success but it's doubtful if the treasury of the co-ordinating Board of Trade will like the sound of that music. One big-beat band strummed and sang so loudly that two of the speaker cones — worth $100 each — in the P.A. system were shattered.

Kiwansis will use its profits emerged financially won't be known for some time. The operation was different this year. Instead of operating its own baron of beef stand, the board rented out the concession and will take a slice off the top. Another cut will come from the Kiwansis hot dog stands and crumpet stall, but not from the pavilion.

for the handicapped children's camp at Shawanigan.

The water show with its water skiers, sky divers and kite skiers was a bonus for the sun-worshippers who packed the beach. The one paddle wheeler, making its last Victoria appearance before going over to fly Vancouver waters, was full for almost every trip to Jimmy Chicken Island.

Business wasn't always brisk at Willow Beach.

There were lulls at the Kiddies Carnival Saturday when there was a charge for rides. But Sunday when the Oak Bay merchants picked up the tab there was a constant line-up.

Crumpets weren't selling too well Saturday at a dime each including the customary jam.

But when they were announced as "special, with jam on for only 10 cents" there was a rush and they sold like hot cakes.

All in all it was a good weekend from the colorful parade Saturday to the bonfire on Shell Island Sunday night.

It was a whopping success," said Mr. Kent. "We had more help this year. As always there were problems but we've learned from them. The main thing is that the people came and they were looked after."

WHAT'S THE GOOD of a party if a girl can't enjoy a snack, asks Mayne Young of 934 Empress, one of thousands of children at the Tea Party who helped to make great inroads in the beef, hotdogs, crumpets and candy floss for sale.

It was a whooping success," said Mr. Kent. "We had more help this year. As always there were problems but we've learned from them. The main thing is that the people came and they were looked after."

Pleasure Is Ahead of You When You Visit Expo 67

"Meet Me at the Fair" is an appropriate title for a column just now. Are you going to the Universal Exhibition, or "Expo 67" in Montreal this summer or early fall?

If so, you will be one of the estimated 40,000 visitors, and I am sure you have a wonderful experience ahead of you. Don't let lack of planning spoil a day of pleasure in store for you.

In the first place be sure that your feet are in good condition, because you will probably be doing a lot of walking although transportation will be available. Have any corns or even slightly ingrown toenails taken care of by a chiropodist or podiatrist.

Green Thumb Prizes Make Indoor Decor

By Penny Saver

Penny's been on a gardening kick for several months now, and at last she's begun to reap the benefits. My garden is in full bloom with roses, wisteria, lily of the valley and numerous nameless flowers and I'm feeling very proud of my almost-green thumb. Naturally I want to bring some of my prize flowers indoors where I can enjoy them all the time. I've been putting flowers in vases for years with fair results, but this year I decided was the time to really learn something about the art of flower arranging.

With this in mind I bought myself a book that gives clear, concise, easy-to-follow rules for creating floral highlights for every corner of the house. This book is written by a well-qualified artist who has combined the tradition of the Orient with the informality of the West in her charming arrangements. The author's aim is to show how design, balance and harmony can be achieved using easily obtainable flower materials.

This book, most sensibly, begins at the beginning, with a brief general discussion on the growth habits of plants — where leaves and blooms are usually thickest, the use of the upward line of foliage and flower growth, and the preparation of flower materials.

If you're like me, you take your flowers straight from the garden and would never dream of trying to shape them beyond snipping off excess leaves. As in any other construction work, tools are required, and this book gives a list of basic equipment that will help you build a well-balanced arrangement.

In these simple designs where balance and simplicity are the key-notes, a small piece of florist's wire can manipulate stems into place.

Not only does this book give detailed instructions and illustrations for the creation of any shape or size of arrangement made with every possible plant, but it also gives numerous hints on where and how to place an arrangement so that it will most effectively accent your interior decor.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Soft Soap Mom, But Be Tender

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: That letter about the sister who couldn't get their aging mother to bathe regularly hit home with me because I have such a mother.

The poor soul is in her late seventies and is forgetful and somewhat childlike. She is very heavy (about 250) so I coax and tease and jolly her while I undress her. Then with the help of my good husband we get her into the tub and give her a good scrubbing. Then we get her out of the tub, dry her, and give her a good going over with some nice-smelling dusting powder.

I'm sure the baths we give her are the only ones she ever has. Even though they're only once every two weeks, they are better than none.

SAME PROBLEM SOLVED

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see that someone else had trouble getting her mother to take a bath because I really was ashamed to tell somebody that I had the same problem with my own mother. I guess it was no secret until I learned how to handle her.

Mamma was 74 and stubborn as a mule. When she'd come to visit me I could smell her coming a block away, and after the left I used a can of spray to freshen the house. Finally I realized she was just like a child so I used the same tactics I'd use on a little kid and it worked.

We wear comfortable clothes. Socks and easy shirtwaist dresses with a jacket or sweater to match are a good idea. Don't forget sunglasses or you will come home with tired eyes and some new squint lines. Today the great big ones are very smart looking.

Perhaps you might like to have me exercises to strengthen the feet. If so, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet "Take Care of Your Feet." Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Some women are more comfortable when wearing shoes which have moderate heels with a generous base rather than flats. You know your feet best! Be sure that the shoes give you adequate support for a long day.

Leather shoes are best because they give the feet ventilation as well as support and do not cause irritating perspiration. If your feet are tired at the end of a day, treat them to alternate hot and cold baths.

If you have varicose veins or a tendency to swell, you may be more comfortable if you wear elasticized stockings which give you added support. Be sure not to buy a size which is too small for you.

While she was splashing around in her bath I'd run her clothes through the automatic and I added oil to them, too.

Much to my surprise, every time she came to visit she asked for her "wa-wa time."

HAPPY NOW

DEAR ABBY: As a newly ordained minister, my husband has been asked to officiate at many marriage ceremonies. So why do they send us an invitation to the wedding? They know my husband will be there, but they send an invitation with

EMERALD NECKLACE IS TALISMAN

A gold pendant studded with emeralds was the "something old" talisman for Patricia Anne Metcalf when she became the bride of Lawrence Robert Jones at a recent ceremony in Garden City United Church.

The pendant, which belonged to her great-great grandmother, was the only jewelry accepted when she became the bride of Lawrence Robert Jones at a recent ceremony in Garden City United Church.

Rev. H. R. Whitmore officiated at the double-ring ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Metcalf of Victoria, and the son of Lt.-Cmdr. Robert H. Jones and Mrs. Jones of Trenton, Ontario, formerly of Victoria. Mr. Metcalf gave his daughter in marriage.

Yellow gladioli, mauve stocks and white narcissi decorated the church and altar for the service. Yellow satin roses with white ribbons marked the pews. Mrs. Ruth Powell was the organist, and K. Nelson sang "Til Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Hehn, wore a floor-length gown of yellow peau de soie fashioned with a lace bodice. Bridesmaids Mrs. Jack McLeod and Mrs. Linda Lambie and Norleen Bradshaw, were identical floor-length gowns styled on empire lines of green net over yellow satin.

Their headpieces matched their outfits. The attendants carried crescent bouquets of yellow and orange daisies with white rosebuds. All wore silver lockets, gifts of the bride. Robert Hehn was best man and Ken Wear, John McKay and Mike Newman were ushers.

Ernest Campbell proposed the toast to the bride at the reception following in the Carlton Club. Yellow rosebuds in silver vases flanked the three-tiered wedding cake, topped by silver wedding bells, which centred the head table.

For travelling on honeymoon up-island, the bride chose a suit of pink tweed, flecked with green, and matching green blouse. The ensemble was accented by a white carnation corsage.

Course of Collision For Arabs, Israelis

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A chronology of events of the past few weeks that built up into war in the Middle East:

APRIL 7: Eleven jet fighters were shot down in an aerial battle between Israel and Syria, both keyed up by a series of incidents along their 48-mile border in Galilee.

May 11: Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol said Israel "My have to adopt measures no less drastic than those of April 7" because of continued Arab provocation.

MAY 15: U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser accused Israel of using its independence day military parade as a cover for a massive buildup for an attack on the Arabs. He put U.A.R. armed forces on a state of emergency alert.

MAY 17: Crisis develops. U.A.R. announced vast troop buildup along its 117-mile Sinai border to meet Israeli "aggression" and demanded withdrawal of the UN emergency force which had kept border peace since 1956. As the UN troops withdrew, Egyptian forces moved into key locations.

MAY 22: Nasser declared the Gulf of Aqaba closed to Israeli shipping and Israeli-bound cargoes.

MAY 24: Israel charged the blockade was an "armed attack" on the Jewish state. Any firing on Israeli ships would be virtually an "act of war," the government said.

MAY 25: Israeli and Egyptian troops reported to have clashed in the tense Gaza Strip in the first open fighting of their build-up.

MAY 26: As war threatened, U.S. Navy 6th Fleet ships in the Mediterranean headed toward the troubled waters. Two aircraft carriers joined the British fleet in the area.

MAY 27: UN Secretary-General Tham appeared for a "breathing spell" to cool off Middle East tensions even as Egypt called for a "holly war" against Israel. Israeli officials said it was "almost impossible" to avoid a major Middle East war.

MAY 28: Nasser vowed to back his Gulf of Aqaba blockade by force if necessary. He said any attack would be met by "total war."

MAY 29: Israeli and Egyptian forces exchanged fire across the Gaza Strip border. Each side blamed the other for the gun battle.

MAY 30: Nasser and Jordanian King Hussein shelled a bitter feud to sign a five-year mutual defence treaty against Israel.

SALESMAN' LAUDEDKnotts Wins Fifth Emmy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don Knotts won his fifth Emmy as jittery deputy sheriff and Lucille Ball got her first Emmy in 12 years at the television academy's 19th annual awards.

The award for outstanding comedy series went "Sunday night to 'The Monkees,' four beatle-like musicians.

As televised ceremonies in Los Angeles and New York hotels, the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences chose also among winners for 1966-67:

Don Knotts and Frances Bavier Collect Honors

PROPAGANDA, NOT ART'One Sour Note
In Lively Show

By BERYL PROUDMAN,
In the heat of Sunday afternoon perhaps the most comfortable people were those who attended the Victoria City Police Youth Band concert at McPherson Theatre.

This light lively concert offered such variety as is usually associated with park-bandstand performances but without the disadvantages of glaring sun, swooping insects and screaming children.

The band, playing for the first time in the McPherson and, for the first time too wearing their smart uniforms, is composed of instrumentalists from this area.

PLAYERS

A group formed in 1965 by the inspiration of Ken Nelson, hopes to have its full complement of 50 players soon.

Flight Lieut. Wilfred V. Joyce, CD, LRAM, ARCM, to whom much credit is due for the skill with which he conducts the band, presented an interesting and varied program.

Although the whole program was well played the band was particularly happy in the faster, more martial airs. They obviously enjoyed the swinging beat of "Tijuana Taxi" and the selection from "My Fair Lady."

UFO Pad Gets Recognition

ST. PAUL, Alta. (CP)—Defence Minister Paul Hellyer Saturday opened Canada's only flying saucer landing pad.

The pad, 40 feet in diameter, and costing $10,000, is a centennial project of the town of St. Paul, 105 miles northeast of Edmonton. Mr. Hellyer called it one of the most imaginative centennial projects in the country.

Gilles Bergeron, associate centennial commissioner, unveiled a map at the back of the pad which will show any visitors from outer space where their craft has landed.

The pad, when not being used by flying saucers, will be used as a band shell.

Several soloists added variety to the program; John McGrath played several trumpet solo passages and was joined by Patricia McKenzie, Jim Kurtz and John Prud for an effective trumpet quartet in "Canadian Sunset."

"Clarinet, on the Town," an interesting number with a slow middle section very reminiscent of Gershwin was played with considerable skill by David Plume; and Patricia McKenzie played a solo trumpet in "Magic Trumpet" by Jimmy Burke.

Several numbers played on the accordion by 19-year-old Robert Kettle, a private from Peterborough, were favorably received.

As a tribute to the Centennial, the band played Kenneth Gray's arrangement of Bobbi Gimby's "Canada," and in keeping with that theme the Centennial Sing Out group was introduced.

The vital group of young people so eager to take on the righting of a badly mismanaged world, are rather pathetic in the innocence of their optimism. As one young man explained, they feel that with love, unselfishness, purity and a fourth commodity he had momentarily forgotten, they, with all the young people in the world, can set right the wrongs so apparent about them.

Their sincerity and energetic appeal cannot be ignored and the audience certainly enjoyed the liveliness of their unrehearsed spontaneously-youthful performance. It should not, however, be judged as music nor is there really any place for such a performance in a musical concert.

In any art form when the message to be conveyed is so important that little thought is taken for the style in which it is conveyed, the result is propaganda, not art.

Such songs as "What is the color of God's skin" although exciting and uplifting in thought-content, are pitiable as musical presentations. The place for such "music" is a massed rally, a "love-in" or possibly an evangelizing church—not the theatre.

German Right Gains

HANOVER, West Germany (AP)—The right-wing National Democratic party, accused by its critics of defending Nazi ideas, gained its first deputies in the Lower Saxony state legislature Sunday and claimed a new election success.

While the Bonn coalition of the Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats took most of the seats in the 149-member legislature, the National Demo-

The party, embroiled in a leadership fight, now has deputies in six of the 10 West German states.

ASK ANDY

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA...

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by readers; those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The young man who has the question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Kenneth Kramer, age 13, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, for his question:

Can Halley's comet ever collide with the earth?

The planets and their satellites are orderly members of the Solar System. We can predict their orbits, where they are and where they will be. We can study them at leisure. The comets are far less dependable objects of study. A few dozen of the showiest ones have been tabbed through the centuries and their orbits are pretty well charted. But there are hundreds and thousands of small comets. Some appear unexpectedly because sky watchers of the past failed to report their previous appearances. Many comets, too small to be seen, are recorded on telescopic photographs. The job of computing all their orbits would be astronomical indeed.

Countless comets move around the sun in long, narrow orbits and as they travel they cross the orbital paths of the earth and other planets. The earth's orbit is about 600 million miles long and a comet takes but a moment to cross its path. The chances of the earth being at the exact spot at the time of a comet's crossing are very unlikely. But such a collision could happen. Countless comets have passed near our orbit in the past four billion years. Many have come close enough to be pulled down if the earth happened to be there at the right moment.

It seems likely that comets, maybe big ones, have struck the earth in the past. Tektites and other evidence of ancient meteorites suggest that some of these fallen space travelers may have been comets. In the past century several comets have come close enough to be torn apart by gravitational forces from the sun or the earth. At least one major comet was disrupted in this way and returned on schedule as two comets. Several comets have crossed our orbit leaving clouds of dusty particles. This dusty debris causes the meteor showers that appear at scheduled times of the year. It has been estimated that the earth can expect a comet collision every 15 million years or so. But no one expects that Halley's comet will become one of these grounded space travelers.

The orbit of the famous comet has been charted in detail. It is now chugging toward the sun and in 1986 it will streak across the earth's path and display itself in our skies. The comet's orbit is tilted at an angle hence it touches the earth's orbit only at two points. The two heavenly bodies are not at all likely to be at either of these points at the same time. However, in 1910, the earth passed through the dazzling tail of the famous comet. And twice a year, in May and October, we pass through meteor showers of dusty debris that Halley's comet left on previous visits to our neighborhood of the heavens.

Meteor Showers

We must wait about 86 years between visits. Through most of this time Halley's comet is a cold, dark object dawdling around its narrow oval shaped path. One end of its orbit reaches far beyond Neptune. The other end makes a close turn around the sun. Its few weeks of glory begin as it speeds up, crossing the paths of the inner planets to loop around the sun. At this time it might just might, collide with the sun or be shattered by the sun's mighty gravitational force. But a collision with the earth is just about impossible.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Marie Menard, age 14, of Duluth, Minnesota, for her question:

Does Andy ever answer the same question twice?

If you read the titles to the questions you will sometimes find one that is almost the same as one that appeared before. But if you are a faithful word-for-word reader, you have discovered that Andy never repeats himself. He has, you know, a number of different languages for answering questions. He uses a different language for answering each new group from seven to 17. After all, you can wonder about a question all your life. But at the age of 14 you need a far better answer than you did at

Then there is the problem of "Even the simplest question can lead to a large topic. And a large topic requires lots of explanation, often too many for one column. Also, a large topic has many aspects I can be looked at from many angles. Andy sometimes cuts a topic to give extra details or newly found information. Sometimes he likes a chance to give the same topic from a different point of view. In any case, every answer is specially tailor-made for the reader who asked for it.

Boston Negro Leaders Seek Disaster Aid for Riot Zone

BOSTON (AP)—Three nights of rock throwing, looting, arson, and scattered sniper fire in the predominantly Negro Roxbury section has left more than 70 persons injured, 100 arrested, and property damage estimated in the millions.

Three Massachusetts state representatives from Boston Negro sections asked Republican Governor John A. Volpe today to declare the riot-torn section a disaster area to make loans and federal aid available to businessmen there.

"The people in this community are appalled at the violence, wanton waste, deliberate destruction of property, the loss of jobs held by people in the community and the unnecessary escalation of the problems in financing insurance and achieving economic resurgence of these areas," a letter said.

It was signed by Democratic Representatives Royal Bolling, Michael E. Haynes and Franklin W. Holgate, Negro leaders who have been credited with major street leading from the rocks thrown from nearby roof sections to the southeast residential areas and suburbs.

The focal point of violence Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights was Blue Hill Avenue, a major street leading from the rocks thrown from nearby roof sections to the southeast residential areas and suburbs.

Fire fighters responding to a call at an intersection about 10 p.m. Sunday were pelted with rocks thrown from nearby roof sections to the southeast residential areas and suburbs.

Later at another intersection a sniper opened fire on police from a third-floor apartment. Police returned the fire and searched the building but did not find the sniper. No one was hit.

Another incident at an intersection led to the arrest of a man who was charged with unlawful discharge of a firearm and unlawful possession of a firearm. He was identified as John T. Jones, 76, of Roxbury, a Negro.

Arrests Sunday night, most of them for looting, brought the three-day total to more than 100.

The violence was touched off Friday after a group of mothers demonstrating for better treatment from welfare workers and quicker processing of claims were ejected by police from a city building in Roxbury.

Polic said about 1,000 officers took on about 1,000 rioters during the night. Damage from that outbreak was estimated at $500,000.

Saturday night's outbreak left 15 persons injured, including a fireman shot in the wrist.

Birkdale Shirts Win the Seal of Approval... YOURS and Ours

A shirt has to be pretty special to win Eaton's Research Seal of Approval. It has to be special enough to win YOUR approval. And the way the experts at Eaton's Research Bureau do that is by testing and testing and testing some more. Testing the fit, the fabric, the collar and cuff detailing. Testing the no-iron finish to make certain that when we say no-iron that's exactly what we mean . . . no iron is ever needed to keep this shirt beautifully wearable. What are the facts sir? First there is fabric: a blend of 65% polyester and 35% combed cotton broadcloth, silky-smooth, finely woven, expensive looking. Second there is fit: a wide size range proportioned to fit comfortably around the neck, through the shoulders and down the sleeve, just as if you had it made-to-measure. Third, there is special attention given to collars and cuffs: the Perma-stay soft collars are "Rex" lined to keep them new-looking longer, the convertible cuffs are lined. Finally, each Birkdale dress shirt is "Sanforized" to keep its good fit for life . . . and that's exclusive with Birkdale and Birkdale is exclusive with Eaton's. What more could you ask? If she hasn't married you yet, just tell her you own a wardrobe of easy-care Birkdale shirts ... you're sure to win HER approval!

Birkdale "Classic" Dress Shirts are long-sleeved, white, regular body style in sizes 14 to 17½, 32" to 33" sleeve lengths collectively. Eaton Price, each 7.00

Mid-East War Explodes

UN Council Seeks Ceasefire Formula

Sides Trade Barbs

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations Security Council adjourned today for "urgent consultations" on the Middle East hostilities, after hearing Egypt and Israel accuse each other of starting the fighting.

The 15 member countries, including Canada, were said to be discussing the terms of a ceasefire resolution.

The council president, Danish Ambassador Hans Tabor, asked members to hold themselves in "instant readiness" to meet again.

Israeli Ambassador Gideon Rafael said the fighting started when Egyptian armed columns "moved in an offensive thrust against Israel's borders." Egyptian planes "struck out against Israel" from airfields in the Sinai Peninsula and Egyptian artillery shelled villages near the Gaza Strip.

Criticizes Israel

Egyptian Ambassador Award El-Kony said Israeli arm'd forces are "committing cowardly aggression" against his country.

"The Israeli attacks are so wide, no one can doubt the pre-meditated nature of this aggression," he said.

He claimed that the Israeli attacks included air raids on airfields in Cairo and the Suez Canal area and the bombing of a French tanker in the canal.

Tabor told the council he was informed by the Israeli ambassador at 3:10 a.m. that Egypt had attacked Israel, and by the Egyptian ambassador at 3:30 a.m. that Israel had attacked Egypt.

Secretary-General U Thant told the council that his early information is fragmentary but "it is obvious that serious military action is taking place on land and in the air at a number of points and is spreading." The information, from UN sources, provided "no means of ascertaining how hostilities were initiated."

CHEERING EGYPTIANS scurry through Cairo street today during an air raid alert following news

NO REPEAT PLANNED TO SUEZ RAID

We'll Stay Out, Says U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary George Brown told Parliament today Britain is not taking sides in the Arab-Israeli conflict and has instructed British forces to withdraw from the Middle East not to get involved.

Brown told a packed House of Commons that all British merchant ships due to pass through the Egyptian-controlled Suez Canal were being advised to delay their passage for 24 hours.

He also said he received reports of "mob attacks on our embassies in Benghazi, Tripoli (Libya), Tunis and our consulate in Basra, Iraq."

Brown said: "Our immediate aim must clearly be to bring about an early and general ceasefire."

He said: "We hope the United Nations Security Council in New York City would . . . proceed immediately to the adoption of a resolution calling for this ceasefire."

He added that the UN Truce Supervisory Organization arranged a ceasefire from noon in the divided city of Jerusalem but his latest information "is that after some initial success sporadic firing has broken out again."

Replies to a question, Brown said:

"What I have said very firmly and mean is: 'Taking sides on the merits of this issue is not required for us.'

"What is required is to get a situation in which the solution of the problems which undoubtedly exist can be obtained by negotiation methods and equitable arrangements can be arrived at which can honorably be advanced on both sides."

Prime Minister Wilson sent messages to leaders of several great powers, including President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, as part of a new peacemaking initiative.

At the same time, Foreign Secretary George Brown called in envoys of France, the United States and Russia for separate meetings.

It was understood Brown urged each envoy to secure his government's backing for a concerted attempt to halt the conflict as quickly as possible.

PM Urges All Efforts To Stop War Spreading

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson declared today that every effort must be directed to a ceasefire in the fighting between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

There is only one certain way to prevent the fighting from spreading and that is to end it," Mr. Pearson said in a statement.

He issued his statement after an hour-long briefing given him by External Affairs Minister Martin by external affairs and defence department officials.

The cabinet met 90 minutes later.

Mr. Pearson said the government is taking measures to protect Canadians in the area.

His statement:

"I have learned about the outbreak of fighting in the Middle East with great concern. At the moment all effort must be directed to a ceasefire. There is only one certain way to prevent the fighting from spreading and that is to end it."

The reference to embassies having the required authority meant that they could warn Canadians to leave immediately, and if necessary, help with their transportation out of the fighting zones.

The cabinet meets at 11 a.m. to discuss the situation.

"A statement will be made in the House of Commons this afternoon."

The government is taking all possible measures to provide

CRISIS FLASHES

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson proposed today that Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union consider a high-level meeting on the Middle East war.

Speaking in the Commons, Mr. Pearson said the four permanent members of the UN Security Council have special responsibilities with respect to the outbreak of war, and should consider talks at a "very high political level."

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations Security Council is having difficulty in reaching a ceasefire resolution. Diplomatic sources said today during a recess for private consultations on the Middle East hostilities.

India proposed that such a resolution request the Israeli and Arab forces to withdraw to positions they held Sunday. A majority of members were reported to feel, however, that no mention of troop withdrawals was necessary in a resolution calling for an immediate ceasefire. (See story at left.)

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today called on nations of the world to work for a ceasefire in the Middle East war between the Israelis and Arabs.

Cautioning that continued fighting could lead to tragic consequences, the White House said on behalf of President Johnson:

"We call upon all parties to support the security council in bringing about an immediate ceasefire."

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union charged tonight that the United States and Britain "incited the Israeli extremists" into attacking Egypt.

"The extremists . . . are losing their heads," the government newspaper, Izvestia, said in the first Soviet comment on the Mid-east war.

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel headquarters announced tonight capture of Khan Yunis on the southern tip of the Gaza Strip.

An Israeli column, by the account here, smashed into the area which was the scene of a battle in the 1956 Sinai campaign against Egypt.

Occupation of the sector appeared to have cut off any Egyptian forces in the northern tip including the town of Gaza, unless they could break out to Israeli territory.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is neutral in the present Middle East hostilities the state department's spokesman announced today.

At the same time the state department restricted the travel of American citizens of 14 countries — 13 Arab countries and Israel — until further notice.

MARKET JOLTED

NEW YORK (AP)—The outbreak of hostilities in the Middle East jolted the stock market today to one of its heaviest losses. (Details on page 8.)

Trading was extremely heavy.

Stocks of the international oil companies were hard hit. Texaco fell $3 a share to $70, and Jersey Standard dropped $1.75 to $58.50.

The market retrieved more than half its worst losses before closing. At 2 p.m. the Dow Jones Industrial Average was off 9.81 at 353.40.

At the end of the first hour of trading, Dow industrials had been down 20.77.

Stunt Pilot Dies

PARIS (Reuters)—A French Air Force aerobatic pilot was killed Sunday in the second of two crashes at an International Air Show at Le Bourget airport near Paris.

Israel is fighting Egypt, Jordan and Syria across a wide battlefield tonight.

Plane losses were reported high on both sides after bombing raids on all four nations.

Egypt said Arabs have knocked down 158 of Israel's 450 planes. Israel said 150 Egyptian planes have been destroyed. There was no confirmation of either report.

Fighting started with a border clash between Egypt and Israel in the Sinai desert, followed by an Israeli air raid on Egypt.

Shells fell on the divided city of Jerusalem despite a plea from Pope Paul that it be declared an inviolable city.

Israeli tanks reported gains in Gaza Strip fighting and in the Sinai Desert battle.

Air, Ground Raids Reported

TEL AVIV (CP)—Fighting broke out between Israel and its Arab neighbors today for the third time in 20 years.

Heavy fighting raged in Egypt's Sinai desert—the route Israelis took to reach the Suez Canal in 1956.

Air battles and bombing raids were reported by both sides.

Forces of Egypt, Jordan and Syria were involved on the Arab side.

Kuwait, meanwhile, proclaimed a "defensive war" against Israel and the Algerian press service said troops of the well-trained Algerian army will leave Algeria tonight for the Middle East.

In Rabat, King Hassan II instructed units of the Moroccan armed forces to be sent to the Middle East, officials said.

The fighting began after a series of minor clashes over the last few months across the Syrian-Israeli border, followed by Egypt's command May 17 for the United Nations to withdraw the UN Emergency Force that had separated Israel and Egypt on the Sinai frontier and at the Gaza Strip.

The fighting first erupted on the Sinai Desert front between Egyptian and Israeli troops and tanks, then spread to the Syrian and Jordanian fronts.

Both sides accused the other of starting the war after weeks of crisis.

Egypt said Cairo and other Egyptian targets were bombed. Damascus radio reported that Syrian air force planes bombed the oil refinery in Haifa and left it in flames. The broadcast said airfields in northern Israel were heavily damaged. Amman radio said Jordanian planes also took part in the raid.

The hardest ground fighting appeared to be centred in the Sinai Desert front involving Egyptian and Israeli troops. An Israeli dispatch said the army there had made gains but this was denied in Cairo. Fighting also broke out along the Egyptian-administered Gaza Strip farther north.

Jordanian and Israeli artillery duelled along the border of divided Jerusalem. Damascus said the Syrian army had gone into action on its front with Israel.

Both sides claimed sweeping victories in the air battles, the biggest of which broke out over the Sinai Desert.

TOGETHERNESS was the order of the day Saturday in Burnaby as Robert Strachan (left) and Tom Berger posed to demonstrate the New Democratic Party's unity after its first-ever leadership battle had re-elected Mr. Strachan to his 12th term in the job since the days of the CCF. $100 SPEAKER CONES SHATTERED

Crashing Sound of Music Splinters Board of Trade

THERE WAS SOMETHING for everyone at the Oak Bay Centennial Tea Party Sunday afternoon even if it was only, sitting, standing or strolling on the beach at Willows. Crowd stretched from Cavendish to Cattle Point along the waterfront where there was boat racing, water ski displays, kite skiing, sky diving, sailboats to admire and pretty girls to watch. (Photos by William John.)

By TED GASKELL

Half a ton of beef, 1,500 crumpets, 7,000 hot dogs, a small lake of tea and a cloud of cotton candy.

That's the kind of shopping list you'd make out if you were inviting 18,000 or 20,000 to tea as Oak Bay did at its Centennial Tea Party Saturday and Sunday.

Last year it was estimated that there were 15,000 on Willows Beach for the Sunday water show but there were more this year, said chairman Bert Kent. "They were spread right down to Cattle Point."

There must have been at least 1,000 in Willows Park Saturday evening for what was billed as a dance.

But of the 500 or so around the bandstand only a dozen or so went through the motions and even fewer tapped their feet. It was a watching and listening affair.

The afternoon Spectacle of Bands was a great audience success but it's doubtful if the treasury of the co-ordinating Board of Trade will like the sound of that music. One big-beat band strummed and sang so loudly that two of the speaker cones—worth $100 each—in the P.A. system were shattered.

How the Board of Trade emerged financially won't be known for some time. The operation was different this year. Instead of operating its own baron of beef stand, the board rented out the concession and will take a slice off the top. Another cut will come from the Kiwanis hot dog stands and crumpet stall, but not from the pavilion.

Kiwanis will use its profits for the handicapped children's camp at Shawinigan.

The water show with its water skiers, sky divers and kite skiers was a bonus for the sun-worshippers who packed the beach. The one paddle wheeler, making its last Victoria appearance before going over to ply Vancouver waters, was full for almost every trip to Jimmy Chicken Island.

Business wasn't always brisk at Willows Beach.

There were lulls at the Kiddies Carnival Saturday when there was a charge for rides. But Sunday when the Oak Bay merchants picked up the tab there was a constant line-up.

Crumpets weren't selling too well Saturday at a dime each including the customary jam.

But when they were announced as "special, with jam on for only 10 cents" there was a crush and they sold like, well, hot cakes.

All in all it was a good weekend from the colorful parade Saturday to the bonfire on Shell Island Sunday night.

WHAT'S THE GOOD of a party if a girl can't enjoy a snack, asks Mayne Young of 934 Empress, one of thousands of children at the Tea Party who helped to make great inroads in the beef, hotdogs, crumpets and candy floss for sale.

"It was a whopping success," said Mr. Kent. "We had more help this year. As always there were problems but we've learned from them. The main thing is that the people came and they were looked after."

He Hasn't Forgotten How to Win

Nobody broke any speed records in Sunday's sailing races at the Oak Bay Tea Party but persistent light breezes made racing pleasant.

Peter Townshend, back at the helm for the first time this season after sickness, celebrated by winning the Cub class in Roxy.

Ned Ash skippered May D II to win the Thunderbird class and Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes won the Cal 20 race.

Other winners were Charles Moy and Charles Pash, Sharks; Don McGowan, Haidas; Bill Whithay, Sailorettes; Ralph and Glen Higgins; auxiliary cruisers, Sea Smoke; Brian Woodward, Flying Juniors, Steve Dufour, Bearcats; Brian Glover, X class; boat number 461, Fireballs; John Dewey, Enterprise.

Martin Schadelle won the Mary Tod Trophy as the overall winner in the swim. Ian Bruce was first in the men's section and Andrew Izard was second. Elizabeth Brimacombe and Diane Stewart tied for first place in the women's section.

17-POUNDER

Ray Deal won the Centennial Trophy and a tackle box for winning the salmon derby with a 17 lb. 8-oz. fish.

Second was Ove Pederson with a 9 lb. 8-oz. fish to win a Centennial plaque and a set of rod holders. Third was Joe Maruka who won a Centennial plaque for his eight and a half-pounder.

Henry Mark won a tackle box in the dogfish derby with a 10-pounder.

WINNING ART ON DISPLAY IN VILLAGE

Six prize-winning pictures in the Oak Bay Tea Party art contest will be on display in the village at the National Trust office for the rest of this week.

Winner in the artistic excellence category was Alicia Allin with her study of Point No Point; second was Norma Pike with Sunlight in the Forest and third was Hystop Ingman with Canebrake.

The popularity poll winner was J. George Jenkins with Last Leaves; second was Grace E. Smith's Pal Joey, and third was Stanley Hall, Near Banff.

Prizes were donated by Oak Bay merchants and the Centennial Committee.

170 Walk Out Over Suspension Of Truck Driver

The entire work force at Comox logging division of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. walked off the job this morning.

The walkout was in protest of the suspension last Thursday of truck driver Ken Bader.

A camp committee of six walked into the office this morning to ask management to reinstate Mr. Bader.

Outside, 170 boom men, yarding, loading and truck drivers waited.

When the camp committee left the office a little later to inform them management had turned down the ultimatum, the men quietly left.

There was no picketing or heckling.

The men got into their cars and went home.

Said K. Lidberg, financial secretary of local I-163 IWA: "The yard was empty within two minutes."

"The men feel that suspension for Mr. Bader is suspension for them all."

He said the trouble began when Mr. Bader was called in by management last week and told he would be suspended.

BY MAIL

"No reason was given for the suspension," said Mr. Lidberg. "He was told he'd be informed of the reason by registered mail."

"When the letter arrived it simply said, he had been interfering in management functions."

Mr. Lidberg said the interference apparently referred to a brief exchange of words between Mr. Bader and a camp supervisor.

"He (Bader) simply answered some questions put to him by the supervisor. Apparently the supervisor took exception."

The walkout caused a complete shutdown at the yard.

NO MEETINGS

At press time no further meetings had been arranged between the two sides.

Mr. Lidberg is a shop steward at the camp and third vice-president of the Courtenay Comox local.

Said Mr. Lidberg: "I can't say what the union's stand is until we hear more from the camp committee."

"At present this is an unofficial walkout by the men, who feel they are protecting their own and union interests."

Mike Poje, divisional manager of CZ, was not available for comment.

Another management spokesman said the company had nothing to say. He confirmed that no further meetings to discuss the situation had been arranged.

Thieves left trail of food along their escape route after breaking into a city grocery overnight Saturday.

A window was forced to get in to Rusk's Food Market, 810 Catherine. Police said food was taken from a freezer and from the store's shelves and several items were apparently dropped as the burglars left by the window.

Fifty cents in pennies were taken from the till.

No-Hands Driver Loses Licence Hits Passenger,

A driver whose car veered down Douglas Street while he was apparently hitting his passenger was fined $400 today.

Alan Greenfield of 340 East Burnside, who pleaded guilty to impaired driving, also had his driving licence suspended when he appeared in central court.

Court was told an off-duty policeman spotted Greenfield's car Sunday afternoon. Oncoming autos had to dodge to avoid it as it swerved from the curb over the centre line.

The driver appeared to be striking a woman sitting beside him, the officer reported.

The policeman, in his own car, was finally able to get the other auto stopped at Quadra.

Heavy Plane Loss Claimed In Middle East Fighting

FINAL BULLETINS

Attitude of Russia 'Crucial'

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today the attitude of the Soviet Union in the United Nations Security Council will be crucial in the search for a Middle East ceasefire.

"The next few hours will determine if a voice of reason in the Security Council will bring about a temporary peace between the Arab nations and Israel," Mr. Diefenbaker said in an interview here.

Americans Avoid War Zone

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States defence department said today all warplanes of the U.S. 6th Fleet "are and have been several hundred miles from the area of conflict" between Arab and Israeli forces.

The department issued a statement describing as erroneous reports that U.S. aircraft from 6th Fleet carriers have flown to Israeli airfields and have taken part in "air activity" elsewhere in the Middle East battle zone.

France Explodes Atom Device

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI)—France detonated a "weak" nuclear device at its atomic proving grounds at Mururoa atoll 800 miles southwest of Tahiti. It was France's seventh atomic test and first of the year.

The test was one of three France planned between now and July 14 in a search for a trigger for future hydrogen bombs. Today's blast was originally scheduled for June 1 but was delayed by bad weather.

U.S. Downs N. Viet MiG

SAIGON (AP)—United States fighter-bombers attacked a MiG airfield in North Vietnam today and shot down one of three interceptors that scrambled to challenge the American planes.

It was the third MiG shot down in three days. U.S. planes bagged two Saturday. The Americans made no mention of losses, but North Vietnam claimed two planes were shot down today.

Dimes, Quarters to Use Nickel

OTTAWA (CP)—The Royal Canadian Mint has been ordered to start as soon as possible converting 10 cent and 25 cent coins to pure nickel, Finance Minister Sharp announced today.

He told the Commons the conversion, originally planned for 1968, is being started earlier because of United States action restricting sales from silver stockpiles.

UN Seeks Cease-Fire

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations Security Council adjourned today for "urgent consultation" on the Middle East hostilities, after hearing Egypt and Israel accuse each other of starting the fighting.

The 15 member countries, including Canada, were said to be discussing the terms of a ceasefire resolution.

The council president, Danish Ambassador Hans Tabor, asked members to hold themselves in "instant readiness" to meet again.

Israeli Ambassador Gideon Rafael said the fighting started when Egyptian armed columns "moved in an offensive thrust against Israel's borders." Egyptian planes "struck out against Israel" from airfields in the Sinai Peninsula and Egyptian artillery shelled villages near the Gaza Strip.

CRITICIZES ISRAEL

Egyptian Ambassador Award El-Komy said Israeli armed forces are "committing cowardly aggression" against his country.

"The Israeli attacks are so wide, no one can doubt the premeditated nature of this aggression," he said.

He claimed that the Israeli attacks included air raids on airfields in Cairo and the Suez Canal area and the bombing of a French tanker in the canal. Tabor told the council he was informed by the Israeli ambassador at 3:10 a.m. that Egypt had attacked Israel, and by the Egyptian ambassador at 3:30 a.m. that Israel had attacked Egypt.

Secretary-General U Thant told the council that his early information is fragmentary but "it is obvious that serious military action is taking place on land and in the air at a number of points and is spreading." The information, from UN sources, provided "no means of ascertaining how hostilities were initiated."

NO REPEAT PLANNED TO SUEZ RAID

We'll Stay Out, Says U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary George Brown told Parliament today Britain is not taking sides in the Arab-Israeli conflict and has instructed British forces in the Middle East not to get involved.

Brown told a packed House of Commons that all British merchant ships due to pass through the Egyptian-controlled Suez Canal were being advised to delay their passage for 24 hours.

He also said he received reports of "mob attacks on our embassies in Benghazi, Tripoli (Libya), Tunis and our consulate in Basra, Iraq."

Brown said: "Our immediate aim must clearly be to bring about an early and general ceasefire."

He said he hopes the United Nations Security Council in New York City would "... proceed immediately to the adoption of a resolution calling for this ceasefire."

He added that the UN Truce Supervisory Organization arranged a ceasefire from noon in the divided city of Jerusalem but his latest information "is that after some initial success sporadic firing has broken out again."

Replying to a question, Brown said:

"What I have said very firmly and mean is: 'Taking sides on the merits of this issue is not required for us.'

"What is required is to get a situation in which the solution of the problems which undoubtedly exist can be obtained by negotiation methods and equitable arrangements can be arrived at which can honorably be advanced on both sides."

Prime Minister Wilson sent messages to leaders of several great powers, including President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, as part of a new peacemaking initiative.

At the same time, Foreign Secretary George Brown called in envoys of France, the United States and Russia for separate meetings.

It was understood Brown urged each envoy to secure his government's backing for a concerted attempt to halt the conflict as quickly as possible.

Cairo Dances To War News

By GARVEN HUGDINS

CAIRO (AP) — Crowds of Egyptians cheered, danced in the streets and jammed around cars with radios for news after broadcasts and bursts of anti-aircraft fire told them their country was fighting with Israel.

Despite anti-aircraft firing heard and radio reports that Israeli planes were attacking Cairo, there was no sign of panic.

A few nervous women entered a shelter under a downtown bank, while an elderly woman lottery vendor squatted by a wall of sandbags in front of the bank and shouted:

"Israel will perish! Israel will perish!"

The usual visible reaction was "hehah," meaning roughly "Good, let's get it over with."

Moslem leaders have been urging the Arabs to wage a holy war on the Jewish nation of Israel, formed out of Palestinian land by a war in 1948.

Prime Minister Holt of Australia was invited to attend along with his cabinet secretary, Sir John Bunting.

Mr. Pearson read the statement issued earlier for television adding only "I can't say anything more at the moment but I may have something later."

CAUSED FLURRY

Mr. Martin caused a brief flurry of excitement among the crowd of reporters when he came running up the stairs clutching a green sheet of paper and jog-trotted along the hall from the cabinet room to his office.

He was grim-faced and declined to say anything until after the cabinet session.

On his return trip to the cabinet chamber, he told reporters the government has arranged to fly Opposition Leader Diefenbaker to the capital from his Prince Albert, Sask., home where the Conservative leader was attending the opening of a bridge.

Following the briefing session, Mr. Pearson said:

"We now have all the information that anybody has about the situation." Mr. Pearson told reporters.

Officials said the briefing was an assessment of the situation

Immediately engaged in combat with nearby Israeli troops.

Thant told the council he called a protest to King Hussein of Jordan, requesting immediate withdrawal from the UN headquarters.

Israel's army later claimed it wrested control of the UN headquarters in Jerusalem from Jordanian troops.

Thant also reported that three Indian soldiers of the UN Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip were killed when their truck convoy was strafed by an Israeli plane.

Thant said an unknown number of soldiers were wounded in the attack on the convoy, whose trucks "were painted white, as are all UN buildings and vehicles" in the area.

After Thant finished his report, Indian Ambassador Gopalswami Parthasarathy jumped in to denounce Israel for the incident and asked the council "to condemn most vigorously this wanton attack by the ruling circles in Israel."

He said the slain Indian soldiers "are martyrs in the cause of peace."

session with the first Israeli pilot, who the radio quoted as saying his unit was ordered to raid an Egyptian airfield early today.

All Arab broadcasts called on the armies to drive the Israelis into the sea.

"We are on the threshold of the final battle and we hope that God will grant us victory," King Hussein of Jordan said in a broadcast.

Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israel's victorious commander in the Sinai war with Egypt in 1956, declared to his army:

"Soldiers of Israel, we are not setting out for our conquest. Our only aim is to frustrate the attempt of the Arab armies to conquer our country."

Battle Against Blockade

Dayan said the main task is "to sever and crush the right of blockades and aggression which have been created around us."

The first Israeli-Arab war came as the new state was proclaimed May 15, 1948. Israel was formed out of Palestine, long under British mandate rule. This war was ended in an armistice in 1949, broken in 1956 when Israel, backed by France and Britain, attacked Egypt. That fighting ceased under pressure from the United States and the Soviet Union.

Iraq has been moving troops into Syria and Egypt for more than a week, but there was no report they had gone into action. The Arab high command in Cairo said Iraqi planes had joined Syria and Jordan in raids on Israeli targets.

Cairo Radio said Israeli planes were bombing Cairo and "other places." The Israeli government denied any Egyptian cities had been attacked. Heavy anti-aircraft fire was heard from the outskirts of Cairo but no planes were seen over the centre of the Egyptian capital.

The Israeli army reported heavy fighting in the Negev desert of southern Israel, opposite the Gaza Strip and Sinai desert where Egypt had massed 80,000 troops. The Israeli government radio's military correspondent reported Israeli forces were advancing and Egyptian guns had been silenced in an artillery battle.

A Jordanian government spokesman reported "a fierce battle" in Jerusalem. He said Jordanian artillery set off "huge fires on the Israeli side."

The fighting in the Negev included tank and air battles as well as the artillery duel, the Israeli army said.

Brig. Ezrah Leiberman, operations officer of the Israeli general staff, declared general mobilization in midmorning. The Jewish nation had been partly mobilized for several weeks.

Damascus Radio announced that Syrian planes were bombing Israeli cities and "we have joined the battle."

The radio, quoting the commander-in-chief of Syrian forces, said Syrian aircraft bombed Israeli "towns, positions and installations." Radio Mecca said Saudi Arabian forces have entered Jordan to "fight on the side of our Arab brothers."

Arab 'Fight of Destiny'

The radio said King Faisal of Saudi Arabia pledged his support to Egyptian President Nasser in the "battle of destiny."

The pledge came in a cable from the king to Nasser, the radio said.

Israeli Defence Minister Gen. Moshe Dayan said that "the objective of our forces is to foil the attempts of the Egyptian army to conquer Israel."

Dayan said ground forces went out to silence Egyptian artillery which had been bombarding Israeli settlements near the Gaza Strip.

The Syrian government radio appealed for all Arabs to join the fight against Israel and declared: "The battle is ignited and the fire will not be put out."

It was the first serious fighting since the new Arab-Israeli crisis developed three weeks ago.

Egyptian and Syrian troops massed on their borders with Israel three weeks ago after Israel threatened military reprisals for commando raids supported by Syria.

Nasser then demanded removal of the United Nations Emergency Force from Egyptian land on the Israeli border and from Sharm el Sheikh, overlooking the Strait of Tiran, the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba. UN Secretary-General Thant complied.

Nasser then announced he would bar Israeli shipping from the gulf, Israel's only direct outlet to Iranian oil, Africa and the Far East. Israel said it would fight if the blockade were enforced but has not yet tested it.

Invasion Report Denied

The Israeli government, in a statement issued by its embassy in London, denied the Cairo reports that Israeli planes had attacked or attempted to attack Cairo.

Baghdad Radio, quoting the Egyptian foreign ministry, said Israeli air strikes were directed at airfields in Cairo and the Suez Canal area.

Lebanese Premier Rashid Karami said the battle had begun and Lebanon is prepared for it.

The Egyptian military command said Israeli planes were attacking the Sharm el Sheikh area, site of the Egyptian shore batteries with which Egypt planned to enforce its blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.

In New York, the United Nations Security Council was called into an urgent session at 9:30 a.m., EDT, today to consider the grave new turn of events.

WASHINGTON (AP)—

The United States government called upon "all parties" today to support the United Nations Security Council in bringing about an immediate ceasefire in the Middle East war.

Press secretary George Christian said in a statement that "tragic consequences will flow from the needless and destructive struggle if the fighting does not cease immediately."

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters) —

Radio Cairo said a U.S. tanker tried to slew sideways today to obstruct navigation in the Suez Canal. The ship was not identified.

The radio said a tugboat was sent out to aid the tanker, but that the ship slewed sideways again.

The broadcast also said Israel had tried to attack a French tanker moving through the canal, at Kabrit.

The name of the French ship was not given.

TUNIS (Reuters) — Thousands of Tunisians today invaded the U.S. and British embassies here and began smashing windows of stores well as the artillery duel, the Israeli army said.

The demonstrators, protesting U.S. and British policy in the Arab-Israeli conflict, smashed furniture, ripped up papers and broke windows at both embassies.

The overturned a dozen U.S. embassy cars and, at the British Embassy, set fire to a truck.

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet news agency Tass called Israel the aggressor in the Middle East fighting which erupted today.

The agency report, broadcast on Moscow radio, said "U.A.R. troops are repulsing the aggression."

Nearly three hours after the first announcement of the Israeli-Egyptian clashes, the brief Tass dispatch was the only report on the fighting issued here.

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle has postponed an official visit to Poland due to start Wednesday because of the Middle East situation, it was announced today.

The Israeli army reported heavy fighting in the Negev desert of southern Israel, opposite the Gaza Strip and Sinai desert where Egypt had massed 80,000 troops. Esquimalt to Re-Hear Panhandle Proposal

A new bid to amalgamate the View Royal panhandle with the municipality of Esquimalt will be made at Esquimalt council meeting tonight.

But definite action from council is not likely this evening.

She said that so many

Mrs. W. P. Rankin, organizer residents on the petition another vote is not necessary.

"I think all that's needed will be approval from Esquimalt and from the provincial municipal affairs department."

But Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant said the council will proceed with caution on the matter.

"As everyone knows," he said, "this question has come before the people before. We want to be absolutely sure that the thinking of the department and the minister is before we take any action."

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell wouldn't comment directly on the proposed amalgamation, but he hinted he was pleased.

"This petition has not been referred to us yet," he said, "but I would like to point out that residents of North Kamloops and Kamloops voted 70 per cent in favor of amalgamation this weekend."

Asked if this might be an indication of the future of the View Royal panhandle, the minister replied "there is a certain inevitability about common sense."

Take Care In Big Move To Outdoors

By HILDA BEASTALL

At last the opportunity has arrived for house plants to be moved outdoors for summer.

This must not be taken as the signal for a wholesale move of every plant in the house to the great outdoors, for some are not suited to the life any more than a battery-raised chick would survive on the open prairie.

Some thought must be given to the type of plant and its native environment.

As a general rule, the tropical foliage plants such as philodendrons, dieffenbachias, aechmeas and crotons will do less well out of doors in our climate than in the house.

So leave these indoors for the summer. If a tray of stones can be arranged beneath the pots to create humidity around the foliage, so much the better. The plants will be healthier to go into next winter, and the same arrangement can be carried through winter will prove beneficial.

Potted azaleas and poinsettias are two of the commonest house plants to go out for summer.

The azalea will want plenty of moisture and a spot shaded from hot afternoon sun; the poinsettias after being repotted into a fresh rich soil mixture, will respond to the warmest, sunniest corner outdoors where watering will not be forgotten.

The gardener with an artistic hand can arrange a simulated desert garden in an area as big as a child's sandbox, using a few barrowed loads of sand and a couple of rounded boulders.

A collection of cacti outdoors for the summer in a suitable environment takes on a new interest, and as a bonus many of the plants may burst into bloom the following year after the sunbake.

DESERT GARDEN

It must be remembered that desert cacti have their roots deep down in cool sand, so that a good way to summer these plants when potted, is to bury the pots to their rims in sand.
